

Mother's Day Tragedy Is Reminder For Memorial Day Safety

Editor's Note: Bob Sheue, wire editor on The Democrat, witnessed a tragic accident on South Highway 65 May 14, which claimed four lives. In the interest of encouraging caution on our highways, here is his account.

"Oh God," he moaned, "I'm dying, I'm dying."

The man was helplessly pinned upsidedown in the crushed, overturned wreckage of the gray truck cab. Flailing his arms about him in a semi-delirious state, he reached upwards in an attempt to free his legs which had been rudely jammed between the dashboard and the mangled cab top.

But Hanley Clements' twisting efforts to free himself only aggravated his painful situation. "My legs are killing me," he gasped, "I'm dying, I'm dying."

One man had already checked on Clements through the shattered truck windshield, before fixing his attention beyond the capsized wreckage to the north. A second man was crouched on the ground, reassuring the injured truck driver in low tones. "You'll be all right," he said, "you'll be okay."

Clements continued to try to free himself. "The best thing you can do sir," I said as I bent over to look inside the wreckage to see if I could help, "is to keep as still as you can." The other man placed a pillow someone had brought under Clements' head. "Just rest easy," he said.

I straightened and looked behind me to the south to see if someone was going to call an ambulance. The traffic which normally clogs South Highway 65 on weekends was now backed up almost as far as I could see. Several cars were making U-turns in the road and driving south to summon help at Lincoln.

Walking along the shoulder of the highway I gazed around the truck to the north and noticed a long line of traffic along the southbound lane. Several people were out of their cars, standing and gazing on the tragedy before them on the highway. Few rushed to the three bodies on the road. Their condition was obvious.

"I think these two are dead," one man announced as he moved toward a third, larger form on the road. I stared at the three bodies. Two were children, sprawled strangely on the pavement. The third was their mother, pronounced dead on arrival at Bothwell Hospital. The Highway Patrol said later all three died instantly.

I didn't notice the wreckage of the pickup truck in which they were riding. At first glance I received the impression they might have been walking along the road since the bodies seemed curiously alone in their stillness. I learned later their pickup truck had been literally torn apart in the head-on collision with Clements' unit, loaded with hogs. The driver of the pickup, the father and husband of the forms on the road, died a short time later at Bothwell.

They were from Kansas City, Kan., and their names were Wilbur Willard, 47, his wife, Rose, 44, and their two daughters, Sharon, 14, and Rhonda, 11.

Witnesses to the north said the Willard truck appeared out of control on the wrong side of the road. From my vantage point, four cars back from the wreck in a line of Mother's Day traffic, I could see only the ominous form of the tractor-trailer unit as it slid sideways along the highway and overturned as if in slow motion at a curve in the road several miles north of Lincoln. The car leading the knot of traffic I was in could not escape ramming the top of the truck cab as it fell only feet before it in the road and skidded onto the shoulder. The driver of that car was miraculously unhurt.

There was little that could be done. No one could help Clements from his truck without the aid of a wrecker to pry the top of the cab. Willard was equally beyond aid without ambulance attendants to assist.

Of the five persons involved in the head-on collision, only one survives. Hanley Clements, 59, of Pocahontas, Ark., who suffered multiple injuries and fractures is resting in improved condition at Bothwell Hospital, where he has been a patient since that Sunday afternoon, May 14.

And for the Wilbur Willard family, who may have been visiting relatives or taking a Mother's Day trip to the lake, they became four more names on the tragically long list of Americans killed on our highways each year.

Hostage Transferred

Dallas radio newsmen, Bruce Hughes, left, assists Meredith Roberts, center, from the car of her abductor, Virgil Lee Fuqua, Dallas. The incident began early today with a grocery store holdup in Waco, Tex., where Mrs. Roberts was abducted and forced to drive to a Dallas airport where Fuqua demanded that a plane be ready for him. He later surrendered to Dallas police. Hughes was a mediator between Fuqua and police. (UPI)

Confused Kidnaper Releases Hostage

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A man who held a young woman hostage at gunpoint for several hours today in an attempt to make authorities meet demands to place a jet plane at his disposal surrendered the gun in the Dallas police headquarters, a police spokesman said.

The man agreed about an hour before he gave up the pistol at 9 a.m. to go to downtown headquarters from Love Field and negotiate with Police Chief Frank Dyson.

It appeared he still had some control of the situation in headquarters until he gave the pistol to Asst. Police Chief Paul Townsend.

A police spokesman identified the man as Virgil Lee Fuqua of Dallas.

The incident began early today when a man held up a grocery store in Waco operated by James Roberts, husband of the woman who was held hostage.

The man forced Mrs. Roberts, 20, to drive him to a Fort Worth air field to try to get a plane, and when none was available the pair drove to Dallas's Love Field, the man demanding that a jet plane be ready and fueled for him, police said.

In Dallas, the man demanded another weapon and handcuffs for Mrs. Roberts.

Meanwhile, Townsend negotiated with the man and persuaded him to leave the car in which he and the woman had been sitting with his hostage and enter an unmarked police car to drive downtown to talk with Police Chief Dyson, authorities said.

A route to headquarters was cleared and all persons except Dyson were removed from the third floor of the police station while negotiations went on. All doors were heavily guarded.

Dyson said the man still had his gun while they talked but the man made no threats and was very quiet and composed except that he became "excited about having to face up to jail."

The chief said the gunman did not appear to be on drugs or any other stimulant.

Negotiations in Dallas lasted about five hours, including the talks in Dyson's office.

Where the man who held Mrs. Roberts hostage wanted to fly was not known.

Mrs. Roberts' father, former Waco policeman Thadd Johnson, said Fuqua had a minor gunshot wound in one hand. Johnson said his daughter grabbed the pistol at one point, and the man suffered the wound in wrestling it from her.

Economic Picture Appears Brighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's leading economic indicators pointed today toward a sharply expanding economy in the months ahead.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators increased 1.4 per cent in April and, on top of that, the March advance was revised upward to 1.9 per cent.

The March revision was the sharpest increase in the indicators in a year and the April gain of 1.4 per cent was also regarded as strong advance.

Although the index of leading indicators is not regarded as a precise measure of the economy, it is supposed to shed light on the general way in which the economy is headed.

Fifth Treaty Is Signed As Arms Accord Nears

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Russian leaders, pushing toward the heralded arms curb climax of their Moscow summit talks, gave formal approval today to the fifth American-Soviet accord signed in three days.

The latest agreement is designed to insure against dangerous confrontations between American and Soviet warships that frequently shadow each other on the high seas.

Signing the document were John Warner, U.S. secretary of the Navy and Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Russian navy and deputy defense minister.

Nixon and top Soviet leaders had wrapped up another round of summit talks about an hour before the 5 p.m. signing. They have been conferring quietly about long-range European and Asian issues dividing their countries, as well as about such topics as limitations on strategic arms.

Known as the Washington-Moscow Naval Agreement on Prevention of Incidents On and Over the High Seas, the accord does not affect merchant ships or fishing vessels but only ships and aircraft of the two countries' armed forces.

Under its provisions, military commanders must make increased use of signals, refrain from making simulated attacks and use greater caution and prudence in approaching military units of the other country.

Gov. Wallace To Support Nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stricken Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has reassured Democrats that his delegates to the national convention will support the party's presidential nominee.

"Wallace has publicly committed his delegates to comply totally with the call of our convention," said Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

"That commitment included the provision that no delegate can take part and later support a candidate other than the Democratic nominee."

But he added that Wallace has not promised his own support for the Democratic nominee.

O'Brien's statement Wednesday came one day after he visited Wallace at Holy Cross Hospital, in Silver Spring, Md., where the governor is recuperating from gunshot wounds following an attempted assassination last week during a campaign rally in Laurel, Md.

Wallace's condition is showing marked improvement and speculation mounted that he would be transferred today to Montgomery, Ala.

The fact that agreements carefully prepared for "finalization" during the President's visit were but a fraction of the summit picture was underlined by Nixon's surprise journey Wednesday evening to a country dacha for dinner and conversation with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and others. The session began about 7 p.m. and continued for five hours.

Nixon spent the morning conferring with his staff at his suite in the Kremlin, spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler reported. A meeting with the Soviet leaders previously

Offices To Close For Memorial Day

Sedalia and Pettis County administrative offices, as well as the Motor Vehicle Registration Office, will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day. Maurice Hogan, Sedalia postmaster, announced earlier that special mail schedules would be in effect that day.

He said the service windows at the Post Office will not be open Monday, but a window for box holders will be open from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. for pickup of mail too large for boxes, or mail which requires signatures.

City and rural deliveries will not be made, he said, but special delivery schedules will be observed. Collections will be made in the evening from arterial routes as posted, he reported.

Says Family Income Below Average Here

The average family income in Pettis County in 1969 was more than $2,000 below the national average, and the per capita income in the county was below the U.S. average by almost the same amount, a report from the Census Bureau Thursday revealed.

The report said the average Pettis County family earned $7,338 in 1969, compared to $8,914 in the state and $9,433 in the U.S. Per capita income in Pettis County was set at $2,539, compared to the U.S. average of $4,138.

An interesting statistic in the report was that 0.5 per cent of the county's 2,539 residents were foreign born. Another 3.5 per cent were born in the county, but had one or both parents of foreign birth.

The county's labor force, from age 16 on up, included 74.2 per cent men and 36.6 per cent women. Among the employed, 39.4 per cent were holding "white collar jobs" and 11.6 per cent were in government service, the report said.

Six Months Term

Youth Is Sentenced In Threat Incident

Robert W. Brauer, 17, Route 2, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $100 and costs in Pettis County Magistrate Court Thursday morning on a charge of conveying false information regarding a destructive substance.

Brauer was arrested April 25 by Sedalia police in connection with an alleged bomb threat telephone call made to Smith-Cotton High School.

Evidence at the trial included an affidavit signed by Brauer admitting he made the bomb threat telephone call to the school at 1:38 p.m. April 24.

Information leading to the arrest and conviction was obtained through a "trouble recorder" tap on the telephone line to the school.

Robert Johnson, manager of the Southwestern Bell Co. here, testified that the "trouble recorder" enabled the phone company to trace the call to a private home. That eventually led police to make the arrest.

Brauer was a junior at Sacred Heart High School, but school authorities said he was expelled from school April 24 for "failing to observe regulations" and an "indifferent attitude toward his studies." The authorities said his expulsion had nothing to do with his arrest April 25.

Brauer's attorney, Robert Liston, filed an appeal motion in Magistrate Court after the trial and Brauer posted $500 bond. He was tried in Magistrate Court because the charge is a misdemeanor. The maximum sentence in such a case is one year in jail.

This deals with rules to prevent accidental confrontations between American and Soviet warships on the high seas. The subject, like the other past and prospective summit agreements, was carefully talked out by lower-ranking officials from both countries before Nixon arrived Monday.

On Friday, if all goes well, a two-part agreement limiting the deployment of strategic offensive and defensive nuclear weapons will be signed.

Another interesting aspect of the study was that half of the county's female population of 25 years of age and above included high school graduates. A lower number of men in the same age group, or 48.4 per cent, had graduated from high school, it was learned. At the time of the survey, 8,028 of the county's population between 3 to 34 years old was enrolled in school.

The head count also revealed that "among the county's 31,747 inhabitants age 5 and over in 1970, 2,915 were living in a different county within the state in 1965 and 2,025 in a different state." There was no indication how many persons had moved out of the county during this same period.

About 36.8 per cent of the married women with husbands "present" were included in the county's labor force, and 30.1 of these had children 6 years old or younger, the study showed.

Expense of Food Takes April Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The retail cost of a "market basket" list of food dropped $9 last month, with middlemen absorbing $6 of the reduction and farmers $3, the Agriculture Department announced today.

On an annual basis, the market basket—theoretically enough food for a typical family—cost $1,283 or 0.7 per cent less than in March.

However, at an annual rate of $1,283 the market basket in April cost consumers 0.7 per cent more than last January and 3.7 per cent more than in April last year.

Last Friday the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced grocery prices in April dropped 0.2 per cent from March. The market basket indicator, however, measured prices for the entire month while the BLS based its report only on the first week.

Officials noted the market basket is restricted to prices of food produced on U.S. farms and does not include imported items and seafood.

Question Youths in Area Shooting

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — An 18-year-old Independence youth was shot to death Wednesday about 11 miles southeast of here, and two juveniles who were reportedly in a car with him at the time are being held in the Jackson County Juvenile Detention Center, according to Benton County Sheriff Robert Breshers.

Dead is Glenn Dale Hyatt, whose body was found about three feet from Highway 65 by Doyle Hart, Edwards, who was traveling to Springfield with his wife.

According to Breshers, Hyatt knew the two juveniles and was traveling with them to the Lake of the Ozarks. So far, authorities have not established a motive for the killing, but they have ruled robbery out as a possible reason.

Breshers said the juveniles were traced through a detective's identification card found in Hyatt's personal effects. The sheriff said Hyatt had been contacted some time ago by a detective about the possible involvement of one of the two juveniles in a theft case in Kansas City. Hyatt apparently wasn't involved in the case.

Independence authorities located the two juveniles after questioning several persons Wednesday night.

It was reported that the two youths made three or four attempts to drive Hyatt's car away from the scene of the shooting. However, the car bogged down in mud and was abandoned. Hyatt's body had been thrown out of the car, Breshers said.

He was shot once, apparently with a 9 mm pistol. The bullet struck him in the left cheek and lodged in the back of the head. Breshers said Jackson County authorities had obtained statements from the two juveniles suspected in the case, saying they were with Hyatt that day.

After attempts to drive the car away, the two youths hitchhiked to Sedalia. They were driven there by Adolph Jurgans, who lives near Edwards, but after that authorities do not know how the youths reached Independence.

Breshers reported that Floyd Owens, Benton County juvenile officer, Thursday, would file a petition in the case seeking the return of the juveniles to Benton County. Sheriff's officers said they might be able to bring the youths back here later Thursday afternoon.

Officials here reported that Hyatt's parents did not know why Hyatt was in this area.

An empty 9 mm shell case was found at the scene of the shooting, but the pistol used is still missing.

Heavenly Explosion Observed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Astronomers have discovered the brightest exploding star observed in 35 years and alerted observatories around the world to watch its fiery convulsions of death.
They hope the unique observations will unravel puzzles about the still poorly understood process through which a star burns up its nuclear fuel, collapses, explodes and then becomes one of the strange pulsars that emit regular bursts of radio energy.
"This may turn out in the next two years to be one of the most studied objects in astronomy," Charles Kowal, a member of the staff at the Hale Observatories of the California Institute of Technology, said Wednesday.
Kowal first observed the exploding star, called a supernova, May 13 in a photographic plate of a galaxy in the constellation Centaurus 60 billion miles from earth. It was so bright on the plate he thought an asteroid just a few million miles from earth might have been passing across the field of view of the Hale telescope atop Mt. Palomar.
"Whatever it was, it sure leaped out at me," he said in an interview.
Two nights later, the astronomers trained a larger Palomar telescope on the galaxy and confirmed that they were seeing an exploding star.
Exploding stars are observed several times a year. But until now, they've always been too distant to be valuable research tools.

Mother Feared Father's Anger

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — The wife of an Air Force sergeant charged with the torture slaying of his 2-year-old step-daughter told a Great Falls jury Wednesday that she was afraid to tell authorities about alleged child beatings out of fear of what her husband would do to her.
"I was thoroughly frightened of Andy," Linda Sue Taylor, 19, said. She is the wife of Andrew Taylor, 20, of Bowling Green, Mo., charged with first-degree murder and murder by torture in connection with the death of Victoria Lynn Mullen, who died of head injuries last Dec. 22.
Mrs. Taylor told the jury that on one occasion she and her husband disposed of some of the little girl's bloody clothes at the city dump. But when asked if any of the blood came as the result of beatings, she replied: "I have no idea."
A sheriff's deputy, later in the day, testified finding no trace of the garments in a search of the dump.
Mrs. Taylor said the main reason her husband struck the child was for "wetting her pants."
One time, she said, Taylor tied a belt around the girl's ankle, the other end around the doorknob, then opened and closed the door, banging the girl's head against it.
She told the court that the day before the child died she suffered an apparent seizure with a stoppage of breathing and blood flowing from her mouth. The Taylors took her to the hospital at Malmstrom Air Force Base, she said.
Later the girl was taken to a Great Falls hospital, where she died the next day, six days before her second birthday.
Dr. John Pfaff, a pathologist, testified Tuesday that Victoria had died of bleeding inside the skull and had suffered at least 30 isolated areas of injury.
Mrs. Taylor said her husband beat the child with a wooden stick, a plastic rod and a belt.
On Dec. 21, she said, the girl had wet pants and when Taylor arrived home, he slapped her. She said Victoria's head struck the armrest of a sofa apparently causing the seizure.
In earlier testimony, Mrs. Taylor said she had authorized an autopsy following her daughter's death.
An eight-woman, four-man jury will continue to hear further prosecution testimony.

KILN, Miss. (AP) — Five women have been killed in a series of explosions at an ammunition manufacturing plant which one survivor described as a "nightmare Fourth of July."
Company officials said they did not know what touched off the first blast Wednesday at the Ingram Industries facility in Piney Woods near this southwestern Mississippi village.
The plant employs 145 persons, mostly women.
Star shell flares and tracer bullets produced by the company were set off and sailed through the sky in a spectacular but dangerous display.
They set fires in the grass and pine trees on the 20-acre plant site, touching off more explosions as slowly spreading flames reached sheds and bunkers where explosives were stored.
Even firemen were ordered out of the area when flames menaced a 60-pound drum of lead styphnate, described by company officials as more dangerous than nitroglycerin.

Firemen, civil defense officials, highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and city police from Gulfport and Biloxi waited all afternoon and into the night for the big blast of the threatened drum.
But the only sound was the crackle of bullets in the distance, popping off in the heat, and the occasional "whoomp" of an exploding phosphorus flare.
John Hogue of New Orleans, Ingram's plant safety supervisor, said the first explosion occurred in a small building where five women were mixing chemicals to go into star flares.
He said all five were killed.
Mildred Carroll, 43, of Kiln said she was in a nearby building at the time.
"First I heard the explosion and it blew all the flares in the air," she said. "Some were blown into other areas, where black powder and phosphorus are stored. Then I saw a big ball of black smoke, then a big mushroom shaped cloud of white smoke went up. Then all the star flares went up."

Hogue said the plant had "an elaborate safety system we had to live by. There were federal inspectors around frequently."
He said there was no immediate estimate of damage.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan says chances are good Congress will order U.S. forces out of the Indochina war by Oct. 1 in return for release of American prisoners.
But he adds "I don't think it'll do a damn bit of good."
The Pennsylvania Democrat, who has turned about-face from supporting war policy to opposing it, said Wednesday he is pessimistic Hanoi would accept the terms even if President Nixon did.
Morgan said he believes his committee will approve within two weeks the joint resolution ordering all U.S. military forces out of Indochina by Oct. 1, subject to release of American POWs and assurance of a safe U.S. withdrawal.
If approved by the House and Senate it would have the force of law only if President Nixon signed it.
Morgan, who has voted against all previous proposals to put congressional restraints on the war, has said he will oppose adding any other provisions to the Oct. 1 war deadline, including a cease-fire, which he said would make the end-the-war offer too hard for Hanoi to accept.
Morgan said he began turning against continuation of the war after the Cambodia incursion. He said he would have voted for proposals last year to put a deadline on U.S. involvement if they had been tied only to release of American prisoners.
"It's pretty much a face-saving operation over there now," Morgan said. "So I think we ought to crank up some machinery and get out."

President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev agreed at the Moscow summit meeting Wednesday to send American and Soviet spacemen on a historic joint earth orbital flight in 1975. Preliminary plans for the flight call for a three-man Apollo spacecraft (upper

Soviet Dogma Taking Beating

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The dogma of Marx, Lenin and Stalin is taking something of a beating in the summit of Soviet leaders with President Nixon.

The leaders of the Politburo are beginning, it would appear, to appreciate the ways of capitalism. They are eager to expand trade with the United States within a capitalist credit framework. They want collaboration in science and technology. They want cooperation in the field of environmental protection. All this is quite anti-Marxist.

Take the agreement to collaborate on environmental protection. According to Marxist-Leninist dogma, natural resources are the property of everybody to be used at will by the state in the name of the people. Pollution should be impossible in a Marxist-Socialist state. It should be regarded as a product of an exploitative capitalist system.

But in the last decade or so the facts of life caught up with the Soviet Union as with all industrialized countries. The leaders are now about to set out to do what a prominent dissident urged four years ago—in an underground pamphlet.

The 1968 pamphlet of A.D. Sakharov, a physicist, said the two superpowers, rather than spend their wealth on weapons of mass destruction, might better seek ways to cooperate in saving the world from pollution and avoiding such situations as "the sadly celebrated problem" of Lake Baikal, which was being poisoned by industrial waste.

"Otherwise," Sakharov wrote, "the U.S.S.R. poisons the United States with its wastes while the United States poisons the U.S.S.R. with its."

If ideology might interfere with a program clearly in the Soviet interest, the Politburo seems perfectly capable of ignoring ideology. There is much to be done on an international scale in research and development of programs that can attack poisoned air and water, eroded lands and all the other plagues of a modern world's industrial society. Russia's problems in this department are less than America's, but they are increasing swiftly.

In the case of cybernetics, or computer science, the Communists applied it to military and space technology but until late in the Khrushchev era its use in the consumer economy would have been equated with some sort of capitalist quackery.

Now the Politburo reaches eagerly for a scientific-technological accord with the chief capitalist nation. There is little doubt that it would like access to U.S. computer technology in the consumer field, where the Russians have made a slow start and lag behind the West.

The Soviet leaders would not allow any East European nation to go as far as Moscow is going with the United States.

When Czechoslovakia attempted an opening to the West in similar style, Czechoslovakia was clobbered by Soviet might.

It is a question of might making right. The behavior of the Politburo at this summit demonstrates once again how the men who run the Communist superpower can bend and even ignore ideology to suit the needs of Soviet national interests. The interests of world revolution still occupy a place in Kremlin thinking, but the interests of world revolution can wait.

Treaty Will Aid Rescues

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new U.S.-Soviet agreement signed in Moscow Wednesday by Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nixon will provide mankind with the first capability of rescuing men in distress in space.

The rendezvous and docking in 1975 of a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft carrying two cosmonauts, and an American Apollo spacecraft with two or perhaps three astronauts, will test rescue techniques that would be called upon in any future space emergency, officials told newsmen here Wednesday.

Furthermore, the newly designated "international rendezvous and docking mission" will give the U.S. aerospace industry a $250-million shot in the arm—much of the money going to the major Apollo contractor, North American Rockwell Space Division, Downey, Calif.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said contractor employment for the new docking mission should rise from 200 currently, to a peak of about 4,400 by the end of 1974.

Fletcher said it will take two years to build and test the docking module—the separate 10-foot-long, five-foot-diameter compartment that will link the Soviet Soyuz to the Apollo command-and-service module.

The astronauts and cosmonauts will spend two-hour periods in the docking module to make the adjustment between the low-pressure, 5 pounds per square inch, pure oxygen of the Apollo craft and the almost natural mixed atmosphere of Soyuz at 15 pounds per square inch.

Fletcher said the Moscow agreement on the joint mission assures retention of the highly experienced Apollo team for work on the Space Shuttle and other future programs.

"It is our hope that this first mission is the precursor of future joint manned and unmanned efforts which will enable both nations to avoid duplication and reduce the costs of space exploration," Fletcher said.

The 1975 mission will join the two spacecraft in earth orbit for two days.

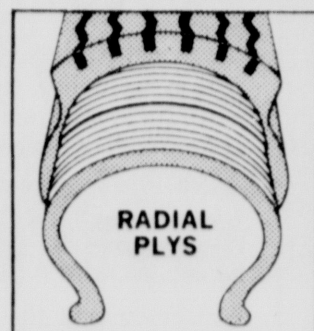

Plan Autopsy In K.C. Death

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police have scheduled an autopsy in an effort to determine whether there was foul play in the death of a man whose body was found by firemen in a burning apartment building Wednesday night.

Police said there was considerable blood under the body, which was badly burned.

Cause of the fire also is being sought. The building supposedly was vacant.

Four Sound Reasons to ride on the B.F. Goodrich Lifesaver Radial

LONG WEAR

The radial ply construction reduces friction, keeps the tire running cooler, and as a result, lengthens tread life.

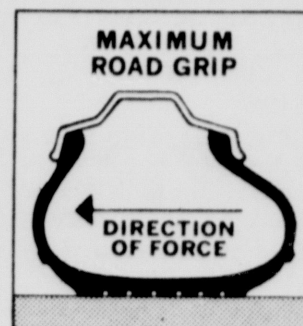

STABILITY

Four belts of rugged Dynacor rayon add toughness and extra stability to your ride.

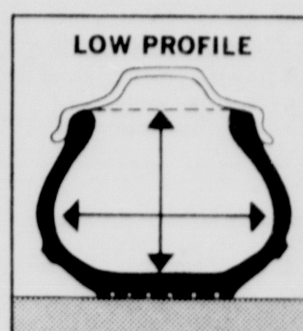

HANDLING

Flexible sidewalls eliminate tread "squirm", keep the tread flat on the road, even during fast cornering or sudden maneuvers.

TRACTION

Wide, low profile broadens holding surface of the tire, more rubber grips the road.

and we guarantee it
40,000 miles
of dependability

In normal driving, you'll get at least 40,000 miles tread wear from the Lifesaver Radial. If you don't get 40,000 miles, take the guarantee back to your BFG retailer. He'll allow you credit for the difference toward the going trade-in price of new ones. And add a small service charge.

Advance Education Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $21.5-billion education bill containing a strong antibusing provision has sailed through the Senate but faces tougher going in the House.

The bill cleared the Senate 63 to 15 Wednesday with most of the opposition coming from Northern liberals who objected to the antibusing rider.

In the House, such opponents will be joined by antibusing members who object because the rider doesn't go as far as a previously passed House version.

Overshadowed by the busing controversy are the sweeping provisions in the bill. The measure would continue a dozen higher-education programs for three more years; launch several new ones, including direct aid to colleges; authorize funds to help schools desegregate, and establish a national institute of education for research.

House supporters of the bill are hoping the many benefits it contains for students, their families and educational institutions will be enough to outweigh members' objections to the busing provision.

Recognizing the difficulties facing them, however, supporters persuaded Speaker Carl Albert Wednesday to postpone the vote on the bill for at least two weeks to give them time to drum up support.

The opponents also are expected to make use of the extra time, however, and an opening shot in their campaign was fired Wednesday by the Congressional Black Caucus. The 13 black House members denounced the busing provisions and said they will vote against the bill.

At the same time, Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, D-La., a leader of antibusing forces, said he will work to defeat the bill because the original strong House stand against busing was weakened by the compromise that emerged from the House-Senate conference.

'Poppy Days' Sale Effort Scheduled

Friday and Saturday will be "Poppy Days" in Sedalia as part of a yearly campaign to obtain funds for handicapped war veterans, according to Mrs. Howard R. Hillman, Route 1, chairman of the drive sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion.

Proceeds from the sale of the artificial poppies will go to various veterans assistance programs such as the Legion's Christmas gift shop, the Christmas gift fund, cheer baskets for the ill, insulin for servicemen, hospitals, scholarships and so on.

Material for the poppies is provided by the Ladies Auxiliary and the artificial flowers are made by disabled veterans.

Say Registration

Books Now Open

Voter registration books will remain open through July 10 and will then be closed until after the Aug. 8 primary election, according to Mary Jane Wilson, Pettis county clerk.

Persons whose names appeared in the May 18 issue of The Sedalia Democrat and Capital must get their addresses corrected by June 16.

Those who need to be reinstated in the registration records due to not having voted for four years must also go to the clerk's office by June 16, she said.

Gun Blasts Interrupt Campaign

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Bursts of guerrilla gunfire early today in Londonderry punctuated the Roman Catholic campaign to get the Irish Republican Army to suspend its war against the British army.

The shooting injured no one, but it was the first violence in Londonderry in more than 24 hours during which the Catholic backlash against the IRA gunmen had gathered momentum.

Two policemen on patrol were the target for one burst of automatic gunfire. They did not fire back, but a stray bullet smashed through the window of a nearby house, ricocheted off a wall and landed on the bed of an elderly woman.

Other shots were fired at a British army post near the Bogside and Creggan districts, the IRA stronghold known as Free Derry.

In Belfast, two civilians standing at the edge of the Catholic Falls Road area were hit by bullets from a speeding car. One of the casualties was in serious condition. The other was slightly injured.

The Dublin headquarters of the IRA's Provisional wing rejected the calls from other Catholics to lay down its arms, and the priest who proposed a peace motion adopted by 2,000 persons at a Londonderry rally Tuesday charged the IRA is trying to intimidate the protesters.

The Rev. Hugh O'Neill said the 35,000 people in the Creggan and Bogside districts live under the gun law of 250 hard-core IRA men.

"There are men among us in many cases far more alien than the British soldier could ever be," he told newsmen. "I know of a North Korean, a couple of Algerians and two Londoners in the IRA ranks."

"They are interested in neither God nor Ireland. It is the Gospel according to Marx that they are teaching, and patriotism is merely a front."

The Official wing of the IRA is Marxist and is fighting to unite Ireland and make it a socialist state. But the IRA's Provisional wing has been responsible for much of the violence in Northern Ireland, and its men are conservative traditionalists.

Security sources in Belfast, the headquarters of the British battle against the IRA, are viewing the peace surge in Londonderry with extreme caution. They point out that similar movements in Belfast came to nothing.

Estimate Fire

Damage At $3,000

Firemen were summoned to the Debra Wilson residence, 110 East 31st, at 8:38 p.m. Tuesday to extinguish a blaze in the utility room of the house.

According to firemen, the fire started as a result of a short in the wiring of a new clothes dryer in the utility room of the home.

Firemen said the interior of the house suffered extensive smoke damage that blistered paint from the walls. Reports estimated $2,000 damage to the building and another $1,000 damage to the contents.

Wednesday afternoon firemen were called to 1323 East Fourth to rescue Michael Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reed, Jr., who was stuck in the fork of a maple tree limb.

Sedalia firemen were summoned to the residence of Frank Bridgewater, 320 East Johnson, at 6:09 a.m. Wednesday to extinguish a fire in the front room of the house.

According to firemen, the cause of the blaze probably was a cigarette which accidentally was dropped in a chair. Damage was confined to two chairs and a divan in the room. There also was slight water damage.

Firemen used two hand pump buckets to extinguish the fire.

Hearnes Requests

Completion of Dam

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has written U. S. District Court Judge John W. Oliver asking that construction of the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir at Warsaw, Mo., be allowed to continue.

Judge Oliver, who is presiding in the trial of a suit seeking to halt construction in the $294 million project, said he received the letter from Hearnes today.

Testimony challenging the dam's potential value in flood control continued today on the fourth day of the trial.

Big Increase Seen In Fair Premiums

The Missouri State Fair has increased its cash premiums by more than $80,000 this year compared to the 1971 exhibition, it was indicated in the 1972 State Fair catalogue.

The Fair will offer $400,858.80 in premiums this year as compared to the $320,159.20 exhibitors vied for in 1971. The quarterhorse races have one of the larger increases, $25,000 to a total of $50,000 this year, because the Missouri Quarterhorse Breeders' Association had doubled its entry fees, according to W.C. Askews, secretary of the Fair.

Another big increase, in the show horses category, will see exhibitors compete for $100,305 this year, as compared to $70,000 in 1971. The reason for this increase is the same as in the quarterhorse races, it was reported.

This year's State Fair Queen contestants will try for $3,100 in premiums. One of the innovations this year, Askew said, was a decision to pay each contestant $100 to help defray travel expenses.

The Fair's admission price this year will be the same as last year: children under age 6 will be admitted free; persons 7 to 12 will pay 75 cents; those over 12, $1.50, and season tickets will sell for $9.50 for the 10-day run.

Askew said the world championship draft horse pulling contest and the world championship pipe smoking competition were new to the Fair this year.

Another featured attraction is Bob Harrington, "the chaplain of Bourbon Street," who will officially open the Fair at 10 a.m. Aug. 18. The star-studded event will have such big-name personalities as Rick Nelson (of the former "Ozzie and Harriet" television show) on Aug. 17; Jerry Lee Lewis and Ernest Tubb, Aug. 18; Tammy Wynette and Faron Young, Aug. 20; and Lawrence Welk, Aug. 23.

Askew said last year's attendance of 379,256 should be exceeded. "We expect about 500,000 people this year," he said, "and the extra day of the Fair should help."

The official dates for the Fair are Aug. 18-27.

Kontum Heavily Shelled

SAIGON (AP)—North Vietnamese gunners slammed hundreds of rockets and artillery shells into Kontum today in the most intense attack on that city of their two-month offensive, following the infiltration of sappers into the town.

U.S. sources said the heavy shelling appeared to indicate that the North Vietnamese were about to launch a drive to seize their second provincial capital.

Similar heavy shelling attacks forced the South Vietnamese to abandon northernmost Quang Tri Province May 1. The provincial capital of An Loc on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, has been under siege for 49 days but has managed to hold, though it is virtually destroyed.

Six hundred to 800 rockets and shells from captured U.S. made 105mm howitzers hit Kontum between dawn and dusk.

Early in the day, North Vietnamese sappers backed by tanks attacked the city from the south. South Vietnamese military spokesmen said that by dusk all of them had been killed, driven out or had withdrawn. But U.S. sources said that as night covered the city, some of the sappers were occupying former South Vietnamese bunkers near the airstrip.

Two assaults against South Vietnam's northernmost defense line at My Chan, 20 to 25 miles north of Hue, were reported repulsed. South Vietnamese spokesmen at Hue said 166 North Vietnamese troops were killed by government troops and artillery in what one U.S. adviser described as a "turkey shoot." South Vietnamese losses were reported as 15 troops killed and 43 wounded.

The spokesmen also reported that two Soviet-built BTR50 amphibious personnel carriers were destroyed, marking the introduction of another new weapon to the Indochina war. The BTR50 is a 14½-ton carrier with a crew of two.

At An Loc, on the southern front 60 miles north of Saigon, field reports said up to 4,000 civilian refugees were able to get out of the besieged city. The refugees, mostly old women and children, walked south to Tau O, a village nine miles below An Loc. They said about 50 had been killed by North Vietnamese shelling during their escape.

American planes, retaliating for the enemy offensive now beginning its ninth week, smashed the two biggest power plants and a major bridge in the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial complex for the first time since the 1965-68 bombing campaign.

U.S. sources said 150 to 300 North Vietnamese sappers from the 2nd Division penetrated Kontum and occupied portions of the air field, some civilian houses, a school, a Catholic seminary and the home of the French bishop of Kontum, Msgr. Paul Seitz.

The targets are located near the southern edge of the city, approximately due south from the western end of the air strip. The sappers also moved into the farming hamlet of Kapang on the southeastern outskirts of the city.

Panel Boots ICC Order On Inspection Charges

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A three-judge federal panel has ordered an Interstate Commerce Commission order that has allowed railroads for the past year to charge for setting off grain cars on rail sidings for inspection purposes.

Reversed is an ICC ruling granting railroads—serving the western two-thirds of the U.S.—the right to charge a half cent to a penny a bushel for the first in-transit inspection stop.

Prior to the 1971-72 ICC order railroads included the setting-off charge in the line-haul rate. The ICC did not require a reduction in the line-haul rate when federal inspection and sampling of grain was eliminated in 1968.

Involving millions of dollars in charges, the decision was rendered Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Wichita. The 38 plaintiffs in the suit included grain companies, elevators and exchanges, and boards of trade in Kansas and 13 other western states.

The court suspended the setting-off charges and made them ineffective until and unless otherwise ordered by the court. No mention was made of requiring the railroads to reimburse the money they have collected the past year for the inspection stops.

The case was remanded to the ICC for "further proceedings consistent with this opinion."

The three judges—James E. Barrett, 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Denver; Frank G. Theis, U.S. District Court, Wichita; and Earl E. O'Connor, U.S. District Court, Kansas City—said in their unanimous opinion that the ICC did not spell out the legal basis of its decision.

"We hold that the commission has not adequately explained, for purposes of our review, its departure from prior norms," the decision said.

"The difficulty generated by the commission's ruling here is that instead of repudiating its long-established rule ... it has attempted to distinguish this case from its prior rulings. In our judgment the commission has failed in this respect," the court said.

Stock Earmarked For An Endowment

BALDWIN, Kan. (AP) — Shares of stock conservatively valued at more than $200,000 have been earmarked for the Baker University endowment fund by a nationally known newsman and Baker alumnus, school officials said Wednesday.

The gift, reported to be the largest the university has received from a living donor, is from Eugene Collins Pulliam, publisher of newspapers in Arizona and Indiana and a founder of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism society.

"In effect, the commission excuses the respondent railroads in the case before us from meeting the substantial proof requirement in satisfaction of its long-established rule predicated upon the rail carriers inability to meet that obligation here," the court added.

The transit inspection service has been historically provided by the rail carriers in the west as part of the line-haul rates.

Regional Bureau Effort

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Bureau of Investigation will open six regional offices with resident agents in an effort to get better cooperation between the state agency and local law enforcement officials.

The Department of Law Enforcement announced Tuesday that the agents will set up a liaison program between the IBI and local officials.

Offices are scheduled to open between now and June 1 in Belleville, Marion, Rockford, Rock Island, and Joliet. Another office will open later in the Peoria-Pekin area.

Some local police officials have complained about disputes between IBI agents and municipal and county police.

Herbert Brown, director of the Department of Law Enforcement, said the "best way to meet these needs" of local communities "is to have agents who are a part of the community."

Under present plans, two agents are scheduled to work in Rockford, Rock Island and Joliet with three agents in Marion and four in Belleville.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

High Cholesterol Increases Danger

Dear Dr. Lamb — With all the disagreement regarding cholesterol, I would like your opinion on treatment. Can cholesterol be handled by diet, or should one look at the heredity angle and be happy with a count of over 400?

For your information I have taken Atromid which caused continuous headaches and diarrhea. Then I have been on another medicine for four months. The reading was down to 360 but now I have a headache day and night. I usually feel peppy and seem well. Should I live with cholesterol, or is that possible? I am 70.

Dear Reader — Not everyone responds the same way to treatment for high blood cholesterol. I have been impressed that a very large percentage of individuals can decrease their level of cholesterol by adequate weight reduction—all excess body fat.

Weight loss is not so successful in people who need to lose 60 pounds and only lose 10 any more than the dietary management of diabetes is successful in an overweight person who loses only a small part of the weight he needs to lose. The crux of dietary management of high cholesterol is limiting your total calories and decreasing your total fat intake, particularly the saturated fats found in animal fat and lastly limiting foods that are high in cholesterol.

I might point out though that even if you had no cholesterol at all in your diet and ate a lot of saturated fat, you could still develop high blood cholesterol. This was proved years ago in the individuals who ate lots of coconuts as the mainstay of their diet. Coconut oil is almost all saturated fat, yet there is no cholesterol in it.

In general most people who follow a good diet program can lower their cholesterol to quite satisfactory limits provided they really do enough with the diet. Different diet combinations are necessary for different people. Simple calorie restriction works for some. Others need to strictly limit calories, saturated fat and cholesterol. If need be you can put yourself on a diet of fruits, vegetables, cereals, fortified skim milk, uncreamed cottage cheese, lean fish, and lean fryer chicken without skin.

The dietary treatment is very important because a lot of the medicines that are given are somewhat less than satisfactory. People have the kind of difficulty you are complaining about. Just because you have a high cholesterol level doesn't mean you are going to have immediate difficulties. It is really one of several factors that produce an increased risk for atherosclerosis. So, yes, it really does increase the likelihood that you are going to have problems.

SFCC Students To Graduate Saturday

On Saturday Mrs. Betty Hearnese, wife of Governor Warren E. Hearnese, will address the third annual graduating class of State Fair Community College. Approximately two hundred students will be receiving degrees or professional certificates at the ceremonies.

Degrees to be presented are of two kinds, explained Dr. Joyce Fielding, dean of student personnel services at SFCC. Associate of Arts degree will be conferred upon students who have completed 64 semester hours in the academic transfer division of the College and Associate of Science degrees upon those who have completed 64 or more hours in the vocational-technical division. Both groups will also have met specific degree requirements.

Students who have completed a one-year program in practical nursing, clerical skills, welding, supervision and management, and merchandising will receive professional certificates during the commencement exercises.

The ceremony, to be held in the Agricultural Building on the Missouri State Fair Grounds, will begin at 8 p.m. and will include the traditional processional and recessional of the graduates in caps and gowns of Columbia blue and royal blue, the College colors. They will be led by the guest speaker, the members of the Board of Trustees, the administrators, and the faculty in academic robes and hoods indicative of their colleges and degrees.

William Hopkins, president of the Board of Trustees, will make the opening remarks. Following Mrs. Hearnese's address Robert Solomon and Dr. Marvin Fielding, deans respectively of the academic and the vocational-technical divisions, will present the graduates, and President Davis will confer the degrees and certificates.

Others participating in the program will include the Rev. Marvin Albright, United Church of Christ, who will give the invocation and the benediction.

Mr. Thomas Gordon, of the College music faculty, will play for the processional and recessional and the State Fair Community College Chorus, directed by Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, will sing "Onward Christian Soldiers"—Sir Arthur Sullivan.

That Democrat-Capital newspaper carriers pay for their papers each Saturday. If they do not collect from each subscriber, they must wait until they receive payment to make their full profit. If a subscriber continues to receive the Democrat or Capital beyond the last payday, the newspaper carrier is paying for the paper and trusting the subscriber. Only by prompt payment may newspaper carriers realize their full profit each week, since each carrier pays for your paper each week—whether he collects from you or not.

Any subscriber who does not want to pay each week may pay the carrier in advance for as many weeks as the subscriber wishes.

John Hillme To Present Senior Voice Recital

John Hillme, a 1967 Smith-Cotton graduate and a music education major at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, will present his senior voice recital at 7:00 p.m. Thursday in Ellis Recital Hall on the SMS campus.

He is a student of Samuel Gordon, associate professor of music at SMS, and will be accompanied by Miss Stephanie Peterson, of Urbana, on the piano.

John is a member of the Concert Choral and Chamber Singers and has participated in marching Band, concert Band, orchestra, string orchestra, opera orchestra, and opera choruses. He has also served as student conductor of the Dorian Chamber Ensemble.

During the summer of 1969 he toured Europe with the Concert Choral, where they won international competition at Arezzo, Italy. During April 1971 he made a trip with the Chamber Singers on a two-week concert tour in Mexico. He plans to be with the Concert Choral on a five-week European tour during the coming summer.

John has been named to

"Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" for 1970-71 and 1971-72, is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity, and is a past president of Student Music Educator's National Conference. He also is a member of the Mid-America Chorale, a city-wide professional choral group.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Hillme, Springfield, and formerly lived at 700 State Fair Blvd. in Sedalia during the time Dr. Hillme was district superintendent of the Sedalia district United Methodist Churches.

John will graduate cum laude on June 3 and will be teaching in the Springfield public schools next year.

4-H News

The Heber Hunt 4-H Club met recently and 11 members were present. Members showed their latest projects in Macramé.

The next meeting is June 20 and a campout has been planned.

4-H Youth Named To Go To Europe

James Sneed, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sneed Jr., Route 5, is one of three Missouri 4-H club youths who have been accepted as 4-H Teen Caravan members and will be traveling in Europe this summer, according to John Burkeholder, extension youth specialist at the University of Missouri, Columbia. His assignment is Denmark.

The 4-Her's will travel to their host countries in mid-June and remain until mid-August. They will be living and working with several farm families while in their assigned countries.

The 4-H Teen Caravan is organized by the National 4-H Foundation. More than 30 4-H club youths from the United States will participate in the caravan this summer.

Farm Roundup

Operating Regulations Deployment Expected

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New operating regulations permitting greater lending power by the farmer-owned Farm Credit System are expected to be in full effect this summer.

The regulations implement legislation passed by Congress last year that updates operations of units in the system, including the federal land banks, banks for cooperatives and production credit associations.

Under the new package, for example, federal land banks will be able to lend up to 85 percent of the market value of land a farmer wants to buy. Currently, the limit is 65 percent.

Another feature will permit loans for the first time to build nonfarm rural homes in "open country" communities of up to 2,500 population.

A spokesman for the Farm Credit Administration said Tuesday local and district boards in many areas are expected to give priority to approval of the land bank and home-building features.

However, he said, not all districts and local units will approve the new rules at once. Therefore, he said, some areas will begin operations under the expanded authority before others.

The FCA, which oversees general operations of the system, formally approved the regulations last week and now is in the process of getting them published officially.

Farmers and their cooperatives wholly own the units of the credit network and no federal money is involved. The last remaining federal capital was paid off four years ago.

The system provides about one-fourth of the nation's agricultural credit needs and last year loaned about $14.6 billion.

Hardin served less than three years in the Nixon cabinet, from early 1969 until last November when he resigned. He now is an executive with Ralston-Purina in St. Louis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, paying tribute Tuesday to the productivity of American farmers, predicted one farmer by 1980 will produce enough food for 75 to 80 people.

That compares with the current rate of one-farmer production for 51 persons. Butz said at the USDA's annual awards ceremony. At the time of President Lincoln, 110 years ago, one farmer fed four persons.

Only 20 years ago, Butz said, one farmer produced enough food for 16 people.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has a new $4,500 oil painting of former Secretary Clifford M. Hardin to add to its corridor portrait collection.

Hardin's portrait, presented Tuesday at the department's annual awards ceremony, will join others of past secretaries including Jeremiah McLain Rusk, who headed USDA in 1889-1893; Edwin Thomas Meredith 1920-21; Henry A. Wallace 1933-40; Ezra Taft Benson 1953-61; and Orville L. Freeman 1961-69.

The painting was done by New York artist George Augusta. Traditionally, a spokesman said, the department pays for the work from public funds.

Ann Landers

Mate Finding Game Not For Computers

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30 years old and have never married. People have always told me I am pretty, smart, and fun to be with. No one ever mentioned marriage. One day I become a little "adventurous" — or perhaps panicky is a better word — and sent my name (and check) to a scientific mate-matching foundation. I had received mailings from this "Foundation" and the letterheads carried the names of a well-known doctor and two nationally known clergymen. I was sure these people would not be connected with anything shoddy, but I was wrong.

I was put in touch with eight "prospects" in seven weeks. Five were unemployed and looking for a woman to keep them. Two were overt homosexuals — one offered to be my hairdresser and private secretary in exchange for marriage, if I'd let him keep his boyfriend. Another was a religious fanatic who wanted to know immediately if I would let him burn his initials on my back with a cigaret. The only "candidate" who seemed to have all his marbles had a severe physical handicap and told me with considerable anguish that he had met 30 women through the "foundation" — most of them crazy. For these leads he has already paid $380.

I am ashamed of myself for having been such a sucker. The public should be warned about these rackets. Tell the world, will you, Ann? — Seattle Chump

Dear Seattle: I HAVE been telling the world, and I will continue to tell those who are willing to listen. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: I appreciated your boost for Recovery, Inc. For 15 years I suffered from nerves. I went to doctor after doctor, took thousands of tranquilizers, and then I read about Recovery, Inc. in an article by Dr. Walter Alvarez. I learned that a group was holding meetings four blocks from my home.

The people there weren't interested in anybody's past — only the future. They taught me not to be afraid of my feelings, how to react to nervous people who blow up, how to find the courage to go back to shopping, driving and living. You learn you won't die if your heart beats fast or if you can't catch your breath, or if you get waves of nausea and spells of weakness.

All it cost me was 25 cents for the coffee and cake after the meeting. Some bargain for a whole new life, after 15 years in hell. Tell it again, Ann. — M.M.M.

Dear M.M.M.: I will. Write to the National headquarters and find out where the meetings are being held in your town. The address is: Recovery, Inc., 116 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Dear Ann Landers: This is my husband's first year with a firm that will soon have their annual barbecue. Wives and husbands are not invited. It's strictly for employees.

We both work and have precious little time together. I resent this policy and feel that companies should promote

Americanize Office Of Nixon in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon's Kremlin office has been Americanized with such touches as two cans of his favorite pipe tobacco.

The tobacco, from Garfinkel's in Washington, is alongside his pipe and reading glasses on a small square table in front of the walnut desk.

A small group of newsmen who got a peek at the office and several other rooms in the President's seven-room suite found them functional but not especially cozy.

Along with the desk and table, the office has a sofa and modernistic chairs with nubby green upholstery, paneled walls and one glass-front bookcase.

There is a dictating machine which Nixon uses, a television set and a console radio.

A plain black telephone links the President to the impressive array of communications gear brought from Washington. By picking up the telephone he can be in instant contact with the White House via satellite.

The office is to the right of a sitting room with a three-seat sofa, four upholstered chairs and a fireplace.

To the left of the sitting room is a dining room in which the Nixons dined together Tuesday night on food prepared by White House cooks in the kitchen of the Grand Kremlin Palace.

The table seats 12 on straight-back chairs upholstered in green. As elsewhere in the suite, the rugs look Oriental but have square patterns in green and brown. On the white walls are pastoral scenes.

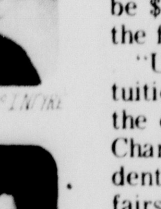

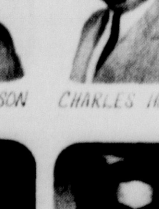

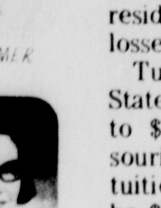

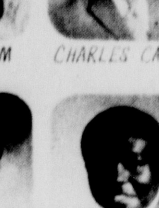

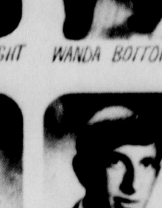

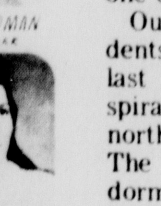

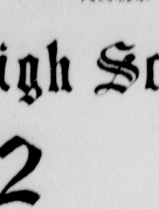

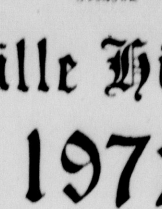

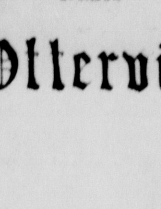

Just outside the presidential suite is a reception room used for meetings of presidential aides. Up a short flight of stairs are rooms where such White House staff members as Henry Kissinger and H. R. Haldeman are staying.

The newsmen were not allowed in those rooms, nor were they shown the bedrooms of the President and Mrs. Nixon.

Aides said Nixon has been averaging about seven hours sleep a night in Moscow and has been having the same breakfast he has in the White House—fruit juice, dry cereal and coffee.

Nixon-McGovern

Nixon	48	21	46	29
McGovern	41	62	37	59
Not sure	11	17	17	12

Humphrey sweeps the black vote, which he won by 94-6 per cent in 1968, by almost as wide a margin today. McGovern as of now would lose as much as 21 per cent of the black vote to President Nixon.

Among voters whose education did not go beyond the eighth grade, Humphrey holds a 5-point lead, while McGovern trails by 9 points. Among enrolled Democrats, Humphrey is ahead by 35 percentage points, but McGovern by only 30.

These patterns, of course, have been evident in the spring primaries, where Humphrey and McGovern have run against each other. But the likelihood is that they will also carry over into the fall election, depending on whom the Democrats finally nominate.

The pivotal question involved in determining who ultimately might be the strongest Democratic nominee could boil down to this: can McGovern more easily pick up the votes of the so-called Democratic "gut" vote than Humphrey can come back with the more independent, better educated, higher income suburban vote?

While it is too early to tell, the chances at this writing would seem to favor McGovern accomplishing a firming up of traditional Democratic votes over Humphrey making inroads into the newer and fast-growing independent vote.

The striking part of the McGovern surge is that as of early May he has obviously inherited almost the entire vote that before the primaries appeared to be going to Sen. Edmund Muskie. Previously, Muskie appeared to be the only Democrat who could give President Nixon a run in the suburbs and among high-income, affluent voters. Now McGovern appears to have won that mantle.

The reason for McGovern's success — and probably Muskie's failure — can be traced to the fact that the better educated and younger voters in America are those most committed to change. When Muskie took on the trappings of the establishment, he faded in popularity among this change-seeking sector. McGovern has come on strong in a campaign emphasizing that he is, above all else, a candidate committed to change in America.

Louis Harris Survey

Independents Back McGovern

By LOUIS HARRIS

The upward surge in Sen. George McGovern's standing in the Harris Survey is a classic test of the new politics versus the old.

The South Dakotan's strength is heavily geared toward forging a coalition of independent voters, the college educated together with those of highest income, the young, plus suburban residents. This would constitute a new, affluent center of gravity in American politics.

The pattern of McGovern support in a general election shapes up as dramatically different from that for his chief rival for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Humphrey's basic strength in his trial heat runs against President Nixon can be found among lower income voters, the elderly, the less well educated and minority groups.

As reported last Monday, in two-way races against President Nixon, Sen. McGovern is now running 48-41 per cent behind, while Sen. Humphrey is 50-42 per cent behind. Statistically, there is not much difference between 7 or 8 points. But the character of the vote patterns of the two leading Democrats is decisively different.

Here is an analysis of the McGovern sources of strength in the latest Harris Survey, taken between May 9-10 among 1,385 likely voters 18 years of age and over, contrasted with Humphrey's showing among the same voters:

McGovern Strengths vs. Humphrey

	Total Voters %	Inde- pends %	18- 29 %	$15M & Over %
Nixon-McGovern
Nixon	48	43	46	49
McGovern	41	42	48	43
Not sure	11	15	6	8
Nixon-Humphrey
Nixon	50	55	51	53
Humphrey	42	34	44	40
Not sure	8	11	5	7

The most decisive difference between the McGovern and Humphrey showings can be found among the 20 per cent of the voters who now call themselves independents. McGovern trails the President by no more than a point among this swing group, while Humphrey lags a full 21 points to the rear.

McGovern's run among young persons under 30 is not as strong as his backers have claimed. He holds only a narrow 48-46 per cent lead in a race against Nixon. However, Humphrey trails among young people by 44-51 per cent. Among the highest income voters, McGovern is only 6 points behind, while Humphrey trails by 13 points.

By contrast, McGovern does far less well among precisely those segments of the electorate where Humphrey makes his best showing:

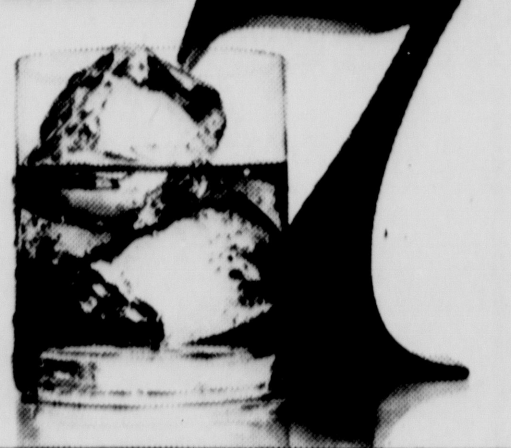

Humphrey Strengths vs. McGovern

	Total Voters %	Blacks %	8th Grade %	Dems %
Nixon-Humphrey
Nixon	50	9	43	28
Humphrey	42	87	48	63
Not sure	8	4	9	9

Out-of-State Tuition Could Harm Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The popular theory that Missouri state colleges and universities were created for Missourians could wind up a costly hot potato for legislators one day soon.

Out-of-state tuition for residents of border states went up last year and will continue to spiral, according to at least one northwestern college prediction. The result could be emptied dorms and higher costs for the resident student to make up the losses.

Tuition at Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville went to $720 a year for non-Missourians this year. This fall, tuition at Northwest State will be $810 a year and on to $900 the following year.

"Ultimately, I think, outstate tuition will be raised to meet the entire cost," predicted Dr. Charles H. Thate, vice president in charge of student affairs at Maryville. The cost now is about $1,200 a year per student and rising.

One of the problems Thate anticipates with increased tuition is loss of student population. He said he expects out-of-state enrollment to drop about 15 per cent this fall and those students make up 37 to 38 per cent of the total 5,600 student enrollment this year.

The next item to be hit, according to Thate's fears, will be the college dormitories.

At Northwest State, dorms were built on a long-range plan and will house about 3,200 students. They are not paid for and there are bond commitments against the property. Loss of dorm population could be a costly headache.

"Non resident students are making a capital investment in Missouri living in these dormitories," Thate said. "Over the longhaul, I think they pay their way."

Thate said the Maryville College will probably lose 400 to 500 Iowa students this fall because of the hike in tuition. He said the cost is now about equal to Iowa state colleges ($720) but the new fees next fall will put non-resident fees over the cost of going to college in Iowa.

On the Illinois border, Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau also plans to raise out-of-state tuition this fall.

Bob Foster, assistant to the president at Southeast State, said fall tuition has been tentatively set at $620 a year for out-of-state students — up $220 over costs this year. A final decision on the proposed increase, he said, will be made later this summer.

The college at Cape Girardeau needs more money, Foster said.

Other state colleges and universities either plan no increase over this year's fees or have yet to decide the matter.

Tuition at Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield for out-of-state students is $900 a year and no increase is planned, according to officials.

At Northeast Missouri State, Kirksville, officials said no change from the current $720 a year out-of-state tuition is planned.

The University of Missouri will discuss the matter at its Board of Curators meeting this month.

"I think there's a possibility there may be (an increase)," Harold Hume said. Hume is director of cost studies at the University of Missouri.

How high is UP?

We wouldn't have the foggiest notion even on a clear day.

But in the case of The Sedalia Democrat and Capital, the UP in circulation continues without interruption.

Take the month of April, 1972, as an example, our total daily production to take care of those we serve was UP to an average of as more and more people in the Sedalia area join our ever-growing family of daily readers.

For all the news, for comments on timely topics, for answers to today's problems, for issue-facing editorials, Sedalians and Central Missourians turn to the pages of those newspapers daily and Sunday.

Because The Sedalia Democrat and Capital delivers the market, advertisers depend on these publications for advertising results. Today their advertising messages reach more homes in the area than ever before.

Joblessness Is Probed In Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Almost a million young men and women on more than 2,000 college campuses are graduating this season. Many will have a tough time finding jobs for which they have prepared.

Last year, according to a state senator, Michigan had 10,000 certified teachers who could not find jobs. A young married man in Pennsylvania who received a degree in economics six months ago is delivering newspapers for $70 a week. In Rochester, N.Y., a man with an engineering degree is working as a department store security guard. And a man with a Ph.D. in American history is jockeying cars in a parking garage—he has received, he said, "no good responses to more than 300 letters he sent to colleges in search of a teaching job."

These are a few examples of the many cited in a "CBS Reports" hour to be broadcast tonight from 8 to 9 p.m. EDT. Called "Higher Education: Who Needs It?" the program is worth a thoughtful look by college students, present and potential, and by their parents.

Reporter Hughes Rudd and a camera crew interviewed an assortment of educators and students. They found everywhere what one college administrator called "the oversupply problem"—too many applicants with degrees for too few jobs requiring them.

The program was not all on the negative side, however. Rudd found the nation has an enormous shortage of trained people for jobs that do not require college degrees. An executive of one of the big three car manufacturing companies said his corporation needs 20,000 trained automotive mechanics right now—and estimated the national need at more than 100,000.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., Rudd visited Ferris State College, which specializes in vocational education, turning out trained technicians and mechanics who receive starting salaries of $9,000 to $12,000. The college president noted that "there isn't a licensed plumber" in the city, but said he had a list of 300 applicants with master's and doctoral degrees.

Specialists and experts interviewed persistently knocked down what Rudd called "an article of faith"—that a college degree is a passport to success, money and the better life.

The program, seen by this writer at a preview, makes its points in cool, unemotional style. It is a special program for a special audience, and might be effective in changing some parental attitudes about the necessity of college and in shifting the goals of some young people.

David Canary, who played Candy, a friendly cowboy on the Ponderosa for two seasons starting in 1967, will return to his role in "Bonanza" in September. Another "major character" will be introduced later in the season.

Antitax Threats Lack Any Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — In publicly declaring her refusal to pay income taxes that support the Vietnam war, Sen. Philip A. Hart's wife joins a few thousand other Americans, most of whom failed to carry out their threats.

Most of those who challenged the Internal Revenue Service lost their cases.

Figures for 1971 income-tax returns showed that 1,740 Americans indicated to the IRS they would not pay any taxes because of the war.

But a spokesman said tax-delinquent accounts have been set up in only 631 of these cases, meaning that the IRS is taking formal action to collect for nonpayment.

In previous years, the number of Americans who have protested to the IRS has grown. Last year, there were 1,648 who told the IRS they didn't intend to pay taxes, but the agency was forced to collect in 698 cases.

In 1969, 1,401 protested, but only 368 drew formal action by

IRS. In 1968, there were 592 who protested and 140 tax-delinquent accounts.

"The numbers are tiny when you consider there were an average of 75 million returns over those years," the spokesman said.

Today's figures only take into account those, such as Mrs. Hart, who have formally protested to the IRS. The spokesman acknowledged that those who use more-subtle means to escape paying taxes in protest might not be detected if they didn't let the service know.

Folk singer Joan Baez announced in 1968 she didn't intend to pay that part of her income taxes related to the military budget. But the government collected from her bank accounts through court action.

A common form of protest is refusal to pay the federal telephone excise tax, but no figures were immediately available on these. It is said to be small in relation to the number of telephone customers.

Mrs. Hart wrote the IRS May 10 that she was refusing to include a check for $6,200 with her quarterly tax estimate.

According to an IRS spokesman, if an estimated tax payment is not paid, is late or not enough is paid, a six-percent penalty applies. But the IRS waits until the return for the year is filed to assess penalties or take action.

Mrs. Hart said she put the money into a special bank account instead of paying it to the IRS.

IRS officials said that in some similar cases, the protester has provided the service with the bank-account number to make collection easier.

Beating Death In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police in suburban Northwoods entered the apartment of a 33-year-old St. Louis schoolteacher and found the man dead, apparently beaten to death.

Police said Wardell Parker, last seen by neighbors Sunday afternoon, had apparently been dead at least two days.

His body was found after school authorities reported his absence from the classroom, unaccounted for despite a good attendance record.

Presbyterian Executive Critical of Group Move

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DENVER (AP) — The top executive of the United Presbyterian Church has accused the governing representatives of the Church of turning their backs on other Christians.

Referring to the United Presbyterians' withdrawal from an interdenominational effort to achieve a unified church—an effort the United Presbyterians themselves had initiated—he said leaders of other churches "will consider us to be unworthy."

Dr. William P. Thompson delivered the surprise rebuke in the closing moments of his denomination's general assembly. It was one of the most dramatic windups to a church convention in modern times.

"You invited them to a banquet and now you have slammed the door in their face," the Philadelphian said Wednesday.

His remarks stirred a last-minute move to reconsider the action, and a majority wanted to do so. But the 396 votes in favor, to 244 against, failed to provide the two-thirds required for reconsideration.

The action had been passed last Friday by 411 to 310, pulling ing the denomination out of the Consultation on Church Union.

After Thompson's remarks, however, other moves developed to return the Church to the union talks when its assembly meets next year in Omaha, Neb.

Delegates of the Southwest Oregon Presbytery said they will draft proposals for such a move at a meeting this June in Medford, Ore.

Thompson, chief administrative officer of the 3.1-million-member denomination for the past six years, said he thought he had to speak out to let the assembly know where he stood.

He said he had considered resigning, but had decided not to do so, and that "every ounce of my energy will be devoted" to bringing about a change in his Church's position. Nine denominations, totaling more than 25 million members, have been involved directly in the reunion talks proposed by the United Presbyterians in 1961. Most other major communions, including Roman Catholicism, take part as official observers.

Land Developer Hearings Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hearings on unscrupulous land developers will be held in Kansas City June 12-13.

George K. Bernstein, interstate land sales administrator for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Wednesday he took the job in March to lead a crackdown on deceitful land sales.

"Thousands of persons every week are being misled or cheated when buying lots for recreational, retirement or investment purposes," Bernstein said.

Land developers, he said, are leading a fight to have Congress take the legal punch out of the Federal Land Registration Law.

Complaints on land sales have jumped from 50 a week to 200 a week since HUD began its crackdown two months ago, Bernstein said.

Haute Couture for Everyone

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — This year's ready-to-wear fashion week was not only a spectacular "biggest ever," but a real fashion headline maker.

The haughty haute couture designers descended en masse into the ready-to-wear arena, thereby acknowledging that not only the but their future was in the mass market.

A comedown? Possibly, but potentially a very, very profitable one.

Figures are eloquent. There were 800 exhibitors seen by an estimated 60 thousand visitors. Buyers represented more than 25 thousand retailers in the United States, Africa, Asia, South America and scattered other points around the globe.

Literally tens of thousands of items for the coming fall and winter seasons were on view, with shows scheduled from early morning until closing time. These ranged from the de luxe ready-to-wear models running to several hundred dollars to the kookie numbers costing under $10, plus loads of costume jewelry, shoes, bags and gloves.

The fight was on when the top designers — Dior, Balmain, Courreges, Cardin, Lanvin, Patou, Givenchy — decided that "if you can't beat 'em join 'em."

But haute couture's decision to break into the world-wide off-the-peg market did not mean catering to potential customers' preset tastes.

The designers have, if anything, emphasized their Frenchness. All their clothes actually will be made in France and when a woman buys a dress on the new plan she will be wearing Paris clothes, designed and made in Paris, France.

The result — booming business. "This year will go well above the billion franc mark against 80 million 10 years ago," declared Bruno du Roselle, spokesman for the French ready-to-wear industry.

The Germans top the list of buyers. But Americans are catching up fast. "The very first day we counted 500 American buyers as against 500 for the whole week last season," said M. du Roselle.

While the old snobbery of prestige labels has not quite disappeared, there has emerged a creative competitiveness at price levels which make more sense where Paris fashion is concerned than ever before.

It is the customer, the average woman, who is going to benefit. Paris has always offered the exceptional.

Granted you will still have to pay from $100 to $200, and more, for an outfit from one of the big-name houses. But that is quite a drop from four times that sum which a made-to-order number would cost at Patou, Lanvin, Cardin, Saint Laurent, Dior or Ricci. And these houses still lead in the fashion field.

While it seems something of an anomaly to talk of clothes for next fall and winter when most women have just bought their spring outfits, it is interesting to note that the shape of things to come is relatively conservative.

Lanvin ... hooded jacket in beige and brown jersey stripes teamed with orange pullover and brown pants.

Yves Saint Laurent, who has come a long, long way since he set up on his own 10 years ago, closed the showings of the ready-to-wear week. Acknowledged the uncrowned fashion king of Paris, he shocked the diehards of haute couture when he announced not so long ago that he wanted "to dress the ordinary girl in the street."

This last production of his is still some way off the said girl, but his collection was hailed as a masterpiece of restrained chic. His clothes are gay, exciting, different, casual (sometimes vaguely reminiscent of the old favorite, the twin-set), but never-the-less calling for that unerring dress sense to assert a woman's personality.

He managed to impart that expensive, sophisticated look to cardigans, soft shirt-waisters with a scarf neckline, trenchcoats or blouses. It's all in the "assembling" of different elements, in strings of false pearls worn with an air, in the colorful harlequin prints in wool and chiffon and the black velvet evening Pierrot trouser ensembles. There are also loose, casual toppers belted like a French railway porter's, suit jackets that have nipped-in waists rather like a baseball player's outfit, pleated or straight skirts that top the knees. Not a miniskirt in sight, but trousers still going strong, often topped by blouses in soft leathers.

This year he showed a new, completely unstructured coat on poncho lines with daring futuristic applications in contrasting colors and enormous pockets, worn over the ribbed body stocking which appears with all daytime numbers.

Cardin's second important point was the return to the tightly belted, wasp-waisted and very short dress. Some even had stiffening over the hips. There were also some tightly belted tent coats with very full bloused backs, dramatic evening sheaths with neckline and seams of the long, tight sleeves "created" with a wide, upstanding, organdy trim.

New, too, was Cardin's

Ensembles featuring tricot pants topped by leather blouses trimmed with tricot (perfect for a country weekend). Or again, a dress in the softest suede with elasticized inset at the waist. These made news. He used a lot of checks for pants which are straight and medium-wide and amusing little vests. There are luxury reversible or fur-lined trenchcoats, flaring, swinging coats and "umbrella" raincoats with capelet and funnel collar, plus kangaroo pockets.

Lanvin also believes in the

treatment of sleeves — all short. On coats, these were pushed back to the elbow into deep folds. Jackets and blouses also stopped short of the ribbed undersleeve.

For the first time in the annals of high fashion, an American designer came to Paris to sell and not to buy. Arnold Scaasi, well-known in New York for his custom-made cocktail and evening dresses, showed 20 models. All were essentially frilly, fluffy, ultrafeminine — the kind that naturally call for real diamonds and pearls.

Michel Goma over at Jean Patou makes clothes that every woman wants to wear.

pants outfit and brown and gray are the basic colors. Pants are worn with turtleneck sweaters, topped by wrist-length jackets, often hooded. Coats are kimono-cut, wrapped-over and belted. Some are edged in contrasting color or trimmed with a large, fluffy, fox collar.

The fabric story spells jersey in all sorts of weaves, cashmere, flannel, wool, voile, chiffons, taffetas, velvet. Colors are muted in grays, browns, camel hair, wintergreens, with lots of bright pinks, "space" blue (Cardin), red and yellow for evening, where black also comes into its own again.

Altogether, the Paris ready-to-wear gave the couture quite a run for its money.

Make Compost Pile Of Fallen Leaves

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — All Rosie needs to do to get rid of all those leaves in her yard is to run an ad in the local newspaper stating, "Organic Gardeners—Need leaves for your compost heap? I've got them, you rake them and you take them." I feel sure Rosie would have her yard cleared in no time. — LINDA

DEAR POLLY — Please tell Rosie that, contrary to what many people may think, most young people in any community may be very happy to help her rake leaves and dispose of them. I am thinking of Cub and Boy Scout groups, church groups, etc. As a Cub Scout den mother I know our boys would think of this as a "fun" project. Perhaps if Rosie provided the "muscle" for the job the owners (next door) of the trees would provide the trash bags. She could also call a local school for help, and club groups are often looking for ways to help neighbors and the community. I honestly think that one or two telephone calls to some of the above mentioned would solve her problem. The same applies to light summer jobs in the yard. — MRS. C. B.

DEAR POLLY — I have started making quilts and wish some reader would tell me how to make a quilt out of old neckties. — MRS. B.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is those drivers who tailgate at night with their high headlight beams on. Nothing is more irritating and blinding to any driver than to have some senseless fool's high beams glaring in the rear-view mirror. I only use high beams when driving alone on a dark road and always lower them when another car approaches. Also, these speed demons who pass at illegal places like railroad crossings and on bridges because they do not like some driver obeying the speed law are another Peeve to me. — MRS. R.A.

Policies On Weddings, Engagements

Wedding pictures and stories should be turned in on the Thursday preceding the wedding, if possible. No wedding stories or pictures will be accepted more than two weeks after the event. Pictures of the bride only will be published.

Engagement pictures will be published on Sunday only and must be submitted by noon Thursday preceding.

In order to better serve our readers with more timely news, the following policy will be followed:

Showers, receptions and rehearsal dinners must be turned in within 3 days of the time they occur and will not be included in the wedding story.

Pictures may be picked up at The Democrat office on the Monday following publication, but none will be returned by mail unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The Democrat will not be responsible for damage which might occur to pictures submitted for publication.

Chapter Holds Final Meeting

Members of Epsilon Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday at the home of Mrs. Gerald Rothe for the final meeting of the year. It was announced that a state convention would be held in Jefferson City at the Ramada Inn in October.

A letter from Bel-Tone Co., advised members of a free clinic that would be held at State Fair Shopping Center during May.

The date of the baseball game was announced. It will be held May 31, 1972.

The year's yardstick was made out and sent to International.

The program was "Physical Fitness" and Mrs. Gerald Rothe thanked the girls who worked on the school tax levy.

Miss Laura Heitmeyer was introduced as a guest transeree.

Garden Club Notes

OTTERVILLE — The Otterville Garden Club met Friday, in all day session at the American Legion for a flower show and flower arranging workshop.

Theme of the flower show was "Splendor of Spring." Best of show award and sweepstakes award in the artistic design division went to Mrs. Wm. C. Dunham. These awards in the horticulture division went to Mrs. Lewis Smith. Judges for the show were Mrs. Wilford Acker, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, and Mrs. P. L. Strole, all of Sedalia.

While the entries were being judged, club president, Mrs. W. L. Burford, conducted the club's business meeting. Mrs. Lewis Zumsteg, chaplain, brought the devotions. Roll call was answered by naming or displaying an unusual container.

Members of the civic committee reported planter boxes filled and placed downtown. Report from the conservation committee concerned the June paper drive to be held in Sedalia. Magazines and newspapers will be picked up at members' homes by conservation chairman, Mrs. Forest Lewis, and will be taken to the collection point in Sedalia, it was reported.

Mrs. Lewis Smith reported on the district workshop on flower show awards held in Warrensburg and announced one on table settings to be held there June 7.

It was announced that the members garden tour will begin at Mrs. Burford's garden at 8 a.m. June 12. Mrs. Cecil Hite is tour chairman.

Hostesses for the contributive luncheon were Mrs. J. H. Parsons and Mrs. Leo J. Smith. In charge of the afternoon workshop were members of the garden therapy committee. Mrs. Zumsteg, Mrs. M. T. Keevil, Mrs. Roger Kirchner, and Mrs. A. Y. Burford. Twenty containers were filled with flowers and delivered to shut-ins following the meeting.

Airport Work About To Get Underway

Three and a half years after Sedalians passed a $790,000 bond issue to do the job, improvements for Municipal Airport are now about to be a reality.

At a special meeting Monday, the City Council opened bids on the job, and is expected to let the contract at its next regular session June 5. Once construction begins, the work will take about a year to complete.

The improvements, consisting of a new 5,000-foot runway, apron, connecting taxiway and visual landing aids, will make the Sedalia airport second only to Columbia Regional in size among Central Missouri strips.

Because of inflation and other factors, the expansion will not accomplish what was originally intended back in 1968, but it will permit the airport to move from a general aviation to a basic transport category.

This means that executive jets and feeder lines will be able to land at and serve Sedalia, and that direct air mail service might even be reinstated at some future date. This will all be made possible by construction of the new, longer north-south runway, eliminating dependence on the present 3,600-foot strip, which is plagued by crosswinds.

Other improvements, such as a terminal building, electronic navigation aids and further expansion of runways, presumably will be deferred under the projected three-phase improvement plan for the Municipal Airport.

Total cost of the expansion is expected to be $1,421,180, with the balance beyond the $790,000 local contribution coming from state and federal funds.

The money has been a long time in coming, but the important thing now is that it's here.

A Conservative View

Behold, the Flight of the Dove

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Clark Clifford, the eminent dove, last week flew a classic course through the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It was a dazzling performance, much applauded by the evening TV news and by the Sunday papers, but it invites a few dissenting observations nonetheless.

I happen to live quite literally in dove country, up in the Blue Ridge Mountains, and would tell you something of this marvelously talented bird. Unlike the quail, which is constantly heard but not so often seen, the dove is highly visible. Unlike the bashful woodcock, which hides in shady places, the audacious dove delights in public attention.

Yet the dove is notoriously the most difficult prize of the upland hunter. The dove owes his survival not so much to sheer speed, though he is deceptively swift; the genius of the dove lies in his skill in shifting direction—left, right, backwards; now skimming, now soaring. The dove always lights, as if by magic, just ten yards out of range. He can vanish in a second.

Observe the flight of Clark Clifford: "The national security of the United States is not threatened in Vietnam, regardless of the outcome of the fighting." Here he is skimming the truth. He maintains his speed: "The small, underdeveloped non-industrial nation of North Vietnam constitutes no threat to us..." True enough; true enough. Now he soars: "And it is equally clear that Russia and China are not on the march in Southeast Asia." But how did that get to be equally clear? It is communism that is on the march, communism in whatever mask it wears.

Clifford veers: "The American people have two major interests: To get our forces—all our forces—safely out of Indochina, and to get our prisoners back." There, if you please, is the dove in perfect flight, simple, swift, misleading. The sentence flashes by and disappears before the possibility of other major interests might be injected. One such interest, at least arguably, is the preservation of small islands of freedom against engulfing waves of Communist aggression.

Clifford has another idea. No matter what Mr. Nixon's stated goals may be, the true commitment is "to provide indefinite support for the Thieu regime." The purpose of the President's recent countermeasures is not to deny the enemy the weapons of war—that dangerous prospect has the witness fluttering in dismay. No, Mr. Nixon has mined the harbors and stepped up bombardment and destroyed rail lines, and "he has done all this to preserve his insistent goal of a secure regime in Saigon."

To which one might respond, if one had a shot, that Nguyen Van Thieu is not immortal; that he is serving a four-year term; that he has offered to resign as part of a peace settlement; and that, meanwhile, a secure regime in Saigon is better than an insecure regime in Saigon—better, that is, if one is interested in preventing Communist conquest.

During his days as secretary of defense,

Clifford set no records for infallibility. It is thus unclear why he should be regarded as a fount of perfect truth and wisdom when he insists that Nixon's measures "will have no immediate effect on the outcome of the fighting in the South, and probably no effect for many months."

On the contrary, when account is given to the totally different kind of war now being waged, there is reason to believe that Nixon's relatively bloodless measures of "denial" may seriously inhibit a flow of fuel and heavy weapons to the enemy. To some observers, whose record at least matches Clifford's, it seems worth a try.

Clifford's own solution, as he testified, is "short and simple." He flies circles around its essence, but essentially his plan is for the United States to admit defeat and to surrender the whole of Southeast Asia to the Communists. This he describes as an "overall settlement" not incompatible with the interests of Hanoi. It is a solution, one is bound to concede, perfectly in keeping with the swerving flight of the fleeing dove. Now you see him; now you don't.

'Kitchen Debate' Today

WASHINGTON — It is highly unlikely that President Nixon will have a repeat of his famous kitchen debate in Moscow, but, if he does, I can't help thinking how different it might be from the last one.

I can just see the President and Brezhnev facing each other across a hot electric stove in the Kremlin.

"Mr. President," Brezhnev says, "you have many newspapermen with you on your trip."

"Yes," President Nixon replies. "The thing that makes the United States a great country is that we have freedom of the press."

"The thing that makes the Soviet Union a great country," Brezhnev says, "is we don't."

"Our system is better than yours because our newspapermen can write anything they want about their government," President Nixon says.

"Our system is better than yours," Brezhnev retorts, "because they can't."

"Off the record," Nixon says, "how do you do it?"

"We used to shoot them. But now is different. We feel someone criticizing the Kremlin has to be crazy. So we put him in insane asylum until he gets well."

"Do you mean to say that your administration has the authority to put anyone who criticizes you in an asylum?"

"Is correct. Communist system is perfect, so obviously anyone who says it isn't needs medical treatment."

"I wouldn't want it to get out of this kitchen," Nixon tells Brezhnev, "but I feel the same way when one of our press people criticizes our system."

"I know how you feel, Mr. President. Is important for strong government not to have opposition press."

"Tell me, Comrade Brezhnev. If one of your newspapers got hold of some top secret Kremlin papers and printed them on the front page, what would you do?"

"Is impossible any newspaper in Soviet Union would print secret Kremlin papers. If they did, paper would be closed, editors would be sent to labor camp in Siberia, reporters would be put in salt mines and man who gave such secrets to newspaper would be shot at dawn."

"Let me ask you this. If one of your columnists revealed in his column how you made your decision to support India in the Pakistan war, what would you do?"

"Is stupid question. We would take columnist to Lubyanka Prison and attach electrical circuits to his body."

"Are you taking notes on this, Henry?" the President asks. "Comrade Brezhnev, what do you do about television commentators who give instant and critical analyses of your speeches?"

"Is no such thing in Soviet Union. Everything said on television is first cleared with us. Only loyal party members may work on TV. Is not same in your country?"

"Unfortunately not," the President says sadly. "Our television people can say anything they want to, and I can't do one thing about it."

"Why that's terrible!" Brezhnev says.

"You're telling me," Nixon says. "What about congress? Do you have any trouble with your congress when you want to do something for the good of the country?"

"Anyone in party who questions our policies is given job shoveling coal on Caucasian Electric Power Project. When our Communist Party Congress meets, I always get standing ovation."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

John F. Kennedy was the youngest man elected president of the United States and was 43 years and 236 days old when inaugurated. The World Almanac notes, however, that Theodore Roosevelt became the youngest American president (42 years and 322 days) when as vice-president he succeeded William McKinley after the assassination in 1901.

WASHINGTON — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, holding out a promise of progress at their Moscow meeting, related an anecdote to President Nixon the eve of his departure.

The anecdote was part of the private message that Soviet ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin delivered to the President at Camp David.

Brezhnev had a favorite story, said Dobrynin, about the traveler who asked a grizzled, old Russian farmer how long it would take to walk to the next village. The farmer grunted that he didn't know. With a shrug, the traveler started off toward the village. But as he was striding away, the farmer called after him: "Fifteen minutes."

Surprised, the traveler retorted: "But you said you didn't know how long it would take me to reach the village."

"That was before I saw how big your steps are," said the old man.

Dobrynin, quoting Brezhnev, said the Communist party chief was satisfied from the advance steps that substantial agreements would be reached in Moscow to improve Russian-American relations. Brezhnev's message was that their meeting would not be merely "cosmetic" — a word that the President later repeated to the press to express his optimism about the Moscow outcome.

His optimism was based, however, on more than Brezhnev's encouraging message. The President also had on his desk an intelligence analysis suggesting that Brezhnev's personal prestige was on the line, that he needed to produce favorable results to justify the summit meeting.

Inside the Kremlin, apparently, Brezhnev had encountered harsh opposition to inviting Nixon to Moscow. The military-industrial faction, in particular, felt the summit meeting would undermine their relations with Hanoi just as the North Vietnamese were achieving victories with Soviet equipment.

The Russian marshals were anxious to share in the North Vietnamese victories and to gain an edge over the Chinese in Hanoi. They also wanted to exploit North Vietnamese displeasure over President Nixon's visit to Peking. This would be difficult to do, it was argued, if Nixon were also invited to Moscow.

The opposition to the invitation was so strong that Brezhnev had to invoke his personal authority to overrule the marshals. When the President mined Haiphong harbor, it strengthened the opposition and caused a crisis for Brezhnev. He had to exercise all his powers to keep the summit conference from being cancelled.

The intelligence analysis suggested, therefore, that he needs a successful meeting with Nixon to justify his insistence on going ahead with it.

Mafia-run companies with annual sales of $400 million are foisting off their products on the American housewife through some of the nation's best-known supermarket chains.

So entangled is the Mafia with the products, that their brand names should read "Cosa Nostra Cleaner" or "Crime Syndicate Suds." In fact, they bear the labels of more than a dozen widely sold items.

What has happened is that the Mafia hoodlums have gained control of the companies making the products through intermediaries called "straws" or brokerage deals. The Mafia may also maintain strategically-placed employees within the companies.

Once the Mafia is in corporate control, its muscle men let the supermarkets know that the price of peace is to stock the mob's products prominently on the shelves.

The supermarkets, in a few cases, have resisted the threats of labor strife, arson and even murder which constitute the Mafia's favorite sales pitches.

More often, the retailers have caved in, giving the housewife products whose higher prices include the crime syndicate's cut.

To combat Mafia influence in the grocery business, Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., will hold new hearings in June on some of the supermarket products. He has already produced public evidence that A and P was unsuccessfully pressured by the Mafia to carry a syndicate-controlled detergent.

With draft calls slackening off, the National Guard has fallen back on recruiting contests to keep up its ranks. Not only has the drive failed, but it appears to violate federal law.

The 113th Tactical Fighter Wing in Washington, for example, reported dimly in its newsletter that the guardsmen are still leaving faster than they're coming in.

Actually, the National Guard may want to reconsider its promises of cash and a Puerto Rican vacation for the winning recruiter-guardsman. Title 10 of the Federal Code clearly states that "no bounty may be paid to induce any person to enlist in the Armed Forces." When we queried the National Guard, they insisted the rule only applied to those coming in — and not those bringing them in.

Balloting Mistake Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Drama Critics Circle discovered Tuesday night that because of a ballot-counting error it had made a mistake in announcing its choice as the best play of the season.

The drama which actually received the highest point tally from the 21 voting members is "That Championship Season" by Jason Miller, instead of "Sticks and Bones" by David Rabe.

Henry Hewes, critic for the Saturday Review and president of the circle, notified the membership of the mistake. He said the ballots which were counted by him and Clive Barnes, critic for the New York Times and vice president of the group, had been inaccurately tallied at the Monday meeting.

A point-weighted vote is used by the circle in which each critic names three plays as first, second and third choices. Each first place selection gets three points in the tally, second choice two, and third choice one.

"We somehow overlooked 10 points for 'Championship Season' that were caught when we recounted after the meeting," Hewes admitted. The corrected score: "That Championship Season," 37; "Sticks and Bones," 36.

The group is trying to figure what to do, because newspaper ads have already run proclaiming the victory of "Sticks and Bones," which had previously won the annual Tony Award of the American Theater Wing.

Mayor Is Speaker For Club

Mayor Jerry Jones spoke about recent city improvements at the regular meeting of the Lions Club at Bothwell Hotel Wednesday.

The mayor noted excavation work for the new municipal building is currently in progress and that construction of the Centennial Park swimming pool should be completed in time for a June 3 opening, barring bad weather.

He also said improvements at the water works, when fully implemented, will reduce the city's fire insurance rating to Class VI.

He said upcoming projects include the airport expansion, the contract for which will be awarded June 5, and construction of the southwest lagoon project.

Mayor Jones added the city is in good financial shape and able to pay for all the improvements. He was introduced by Ira Mounts.

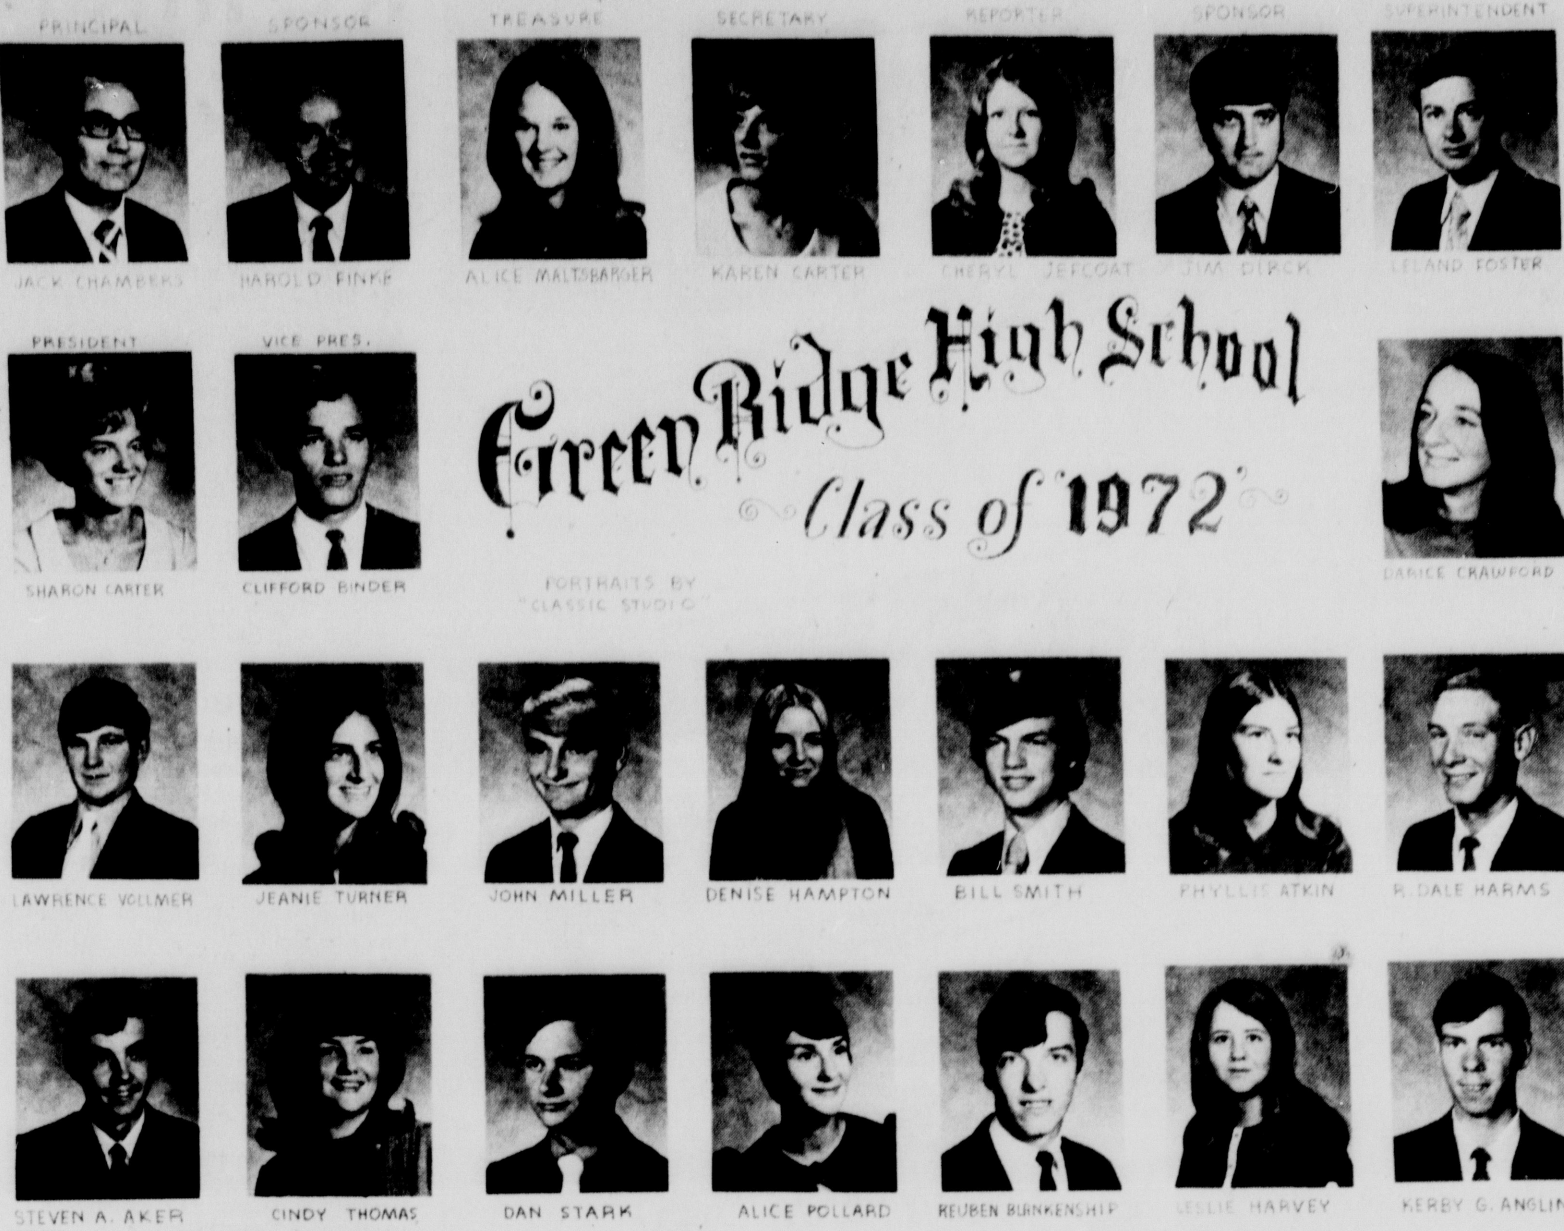

Wally Franks was the guest of Virgil Herrick. Jeff Smith was with his father E.B. Smith, and Norman Cornett was the guest of Bob Maxwell. Also, former Sedalian and Lion Bob Overstreet was guest of the club. Student guests were Dan Embree and Marlin Dedrick.

John Kenney, president, presided at the meeting.

California Is Name of Political Game

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

Sen. George McGovern has won the final political warm-ups, and now the Democratic presidential game is called California. It could be decisive.

The stakes are high, its primary campaign is costly and difficult—and if past performance is a guide, California voters may not be persuaded by the preliminaries.

There are 17 presidential primaries behind the campaigners now. They have transformed Sen. Edmund S. Muskie from a winter favorite into a spring-time also-ran. They have helped catapult South Dakota's McGovern out of the field and into a hefty lead in terms of delegate commitments. They have awarded Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey his first primary victories in a presidential campaign career that dates back a dozen years. And they have proved the Democratic voter in a mood for protest—Gov. George C. Wallace has won six primaries and often ran strong when he lost.

The form chart to date: McGovern won Tuesday in Oregon and Rhode Island, earlier in Nebraska and Massachusetts, after his underestimated campaign took off with victory in Wisconsin.

Wallace was the victor in Michigan, Maryland, Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee and his own Alabama.

Humphrey's victories came in Pennsylvania, in Ohio, narrowly, and over Wallace in West Virginia and Indiana.

That leaves Muskie, which is just what the primaries did. He won in New Hampshire, but McGovern began cutting him down with a strong showing there. He scored in Illinois, then went nowhere.

His slim hopes of nomination now are pinned to a convention deadlock; he is out of the primary campaign, although he edged ahead of Humphrey to run second in Rhode Island Tuesday.

All through the long primary season, McGovern has been doing better than his rivals in collecting delegates awarded outside the primary states. His national total is now 502½, a shade under one-third of the 1,509 it will take to win nomination. Wallace stands second at 323, Humphrey third at 290½.

McGovern said Tuesday night that whether he can build his vote into a first-ballot presidential nomination hinges largely on whether he can win in California. He could have skipped the "largely."

And Humphrey, who has been campaigning there for a week, noted pointedly that "California is an arena all to its own."

There is a record to support that contention. Four years ago, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy won the Oregon primary over the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and thought he had a big boost for California. Kennedy won the California primary the night he was assassinated.

Eight years ago, when the competition was Republican,

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York captured Oregon's primary, went south and lost California to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

McGovern claimed in his Oregon campaign, but not in his victory statement, that a primary win there would give him momentum that could prove crucial in California.

"I expect to win in California, after a hard effort," he said after the Oregon returns were counted.

There are three other primaries on June 6—in New Jersey, New Mexico, and McGovern's South Dakota, where he is unopposed.

Then comes the finale, in New York, for 278 delegates, elected by district. McGovern is expected to score heavily in that June 20 wrapup, perhaps gaining 200 or more of the votes at stake.

Whether he can score heavily enough depends on the California contest. There, it's head-on with Humphrey. A write-in move for the wounded Wallace is only psychological; he is not on the ballot and cannot win.

And in California, it is winner

Loan Ceiling Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has made it possible for home buyers to purchase more-expensive houses with smaller down payments.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board decided Tuesday to increase maximum amounts that federal savings-and-loan associations can lend on conventional mortgages in which a down payment is only 5 to 10 per cent.

For loans covering 90 per cent of the cost of the home, federal savings-and-loan associations may lend as much as $45,000, up from the present $36,000.

On 95-per-cent loans, home buyers may borrow $36,000 instead of the present $30,000. The new maximums are effective June 1.

Conventional loans, those neither guaranteed by the Veterans Administration nor insured by the Federal Housing Administration, are harder to obtain, and the interest rates are higher than on FHA and VA loans.

According to bank-board officials, the impact will be greatest in major metropolitan suburbs, and on young families in which the head of household is between 25 and 34 and is making over $10,000 a year.

Studies by the board showed that families in this category tend to use up their cash quickly, keeping average liquid assets of only $250.

"These are people who don't have a lot of savings, but who are upwardly mobile with a chance to increase their income in future years," a board official said.

These young families are less likely to default on loans also, the board's study indicated, because their careers are at stake and they would tend to try to keep a more-expensive house.

"Preliminary indications are that the larger the loan, the less the delinquency or default risk of a 90- or 95-per-cent loan," said board Chairman Preston Martin.

Handgun Measure Is Up in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois House has before it today a resolution which would call upon Congress to enact effective legislation to regulate the sale, distribution and possession of handguns.

The resolution was introduced Wednesday by members of both parties—Reps. Harold Katz, D-Glenview, and Henry Hyde, R-Chicago, the House majority leader.

The resolution said the easy availability of handguns is "a problem of national scope and can only be resolved through federal legislation."

Frazier Places Crown on Line

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Slugger Ron Stander and champion Joe Frazier clash here tonight in the first championship fight in Nebraska's 105-year history. Frazier is rated a 10-1 favorite to retain his heavyweight title in the scheduled 15-round bout which is expected to draw a capacity crowd of 10,050 to Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

Frazier's fourth title defense also will be witnessed by a national television audience. TVS will carry the bout beginning at 10 p.m. EDT on a 150-station network.

"He is the stone of all stone animals," said Stander, the unranked challenger from crossriver Council Bluffs, Iowa, "but I am going to be in there to the finish."

The form, however, forecasts the finish could come early for the 27-year-old "Bluffs Butcher."

Frazier will carry a 28-0 pro record into the bout and has put all but four of his victims away by knockouts.

Stander is 23-1-1, but has met only Manuel Ramos among the name fighters.

The challenger also has the reputation of being a "bleeder"—he has had 60 stitches in his pro career—although he has knocked out 15 opponents.

"Neither fighter is the type who is going to back off," said Dick Noland, Stander's manager. "But I think Ronnie is in good enough shape to stay in there the distance."

Frazier, 28, will be making his first outing since stopping Terry Daniels in four rounds Jan. 15 in New Orleans.

"Joe has trained just as hard for this fight as when he met Jerry Quarry, Bob Foster or Muhammad Ali," offered Frazier's manager, Yancey Durham.

The chief benefactor from the bout will be the Yancey Durham Jr., Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation.

Frazier is donating half of his share of the proceeds to the foundation. Manager Durham, whose four-year-old son has the disease, is giving all his share.

The sponsoring Cornhusker Boxing Club is giving $5,000 and Stander has promised a share of his cut of the purse.

Frazier is guaranteed $150,000 from television and 40 per cent of the live gate after taxes. Stander's share is 20 per cent of the gate and half of the foreign television money.

Frazier is 5-foot-11½ and has a 73½-inch reach, while Stander is 5-11 with a 70-inch reach.

Advance Tickets

Available for Race

Advance price tickets for Sunday's Jaycees-JMCA sprint race at the Missouri State Fairgrounds go on sale at the main gate, 16th and State Fair Blvd., at 5 p.m. Friday.

Advance tickets may be purchased Saturday at the grandstand on the Fairgrounds during the morning. Saturday afternoon and evening tickets will again be available at the main gate.

Advance tickets are priced at $3; tickets the day of the race will be $4.

Royals, Cards Fall In Extra Innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pittsburgh won at St. Louis 9-4 in 14 innings and Minnesota took a 1-0 decision in 12 innings at Kansas City Wednesday night.

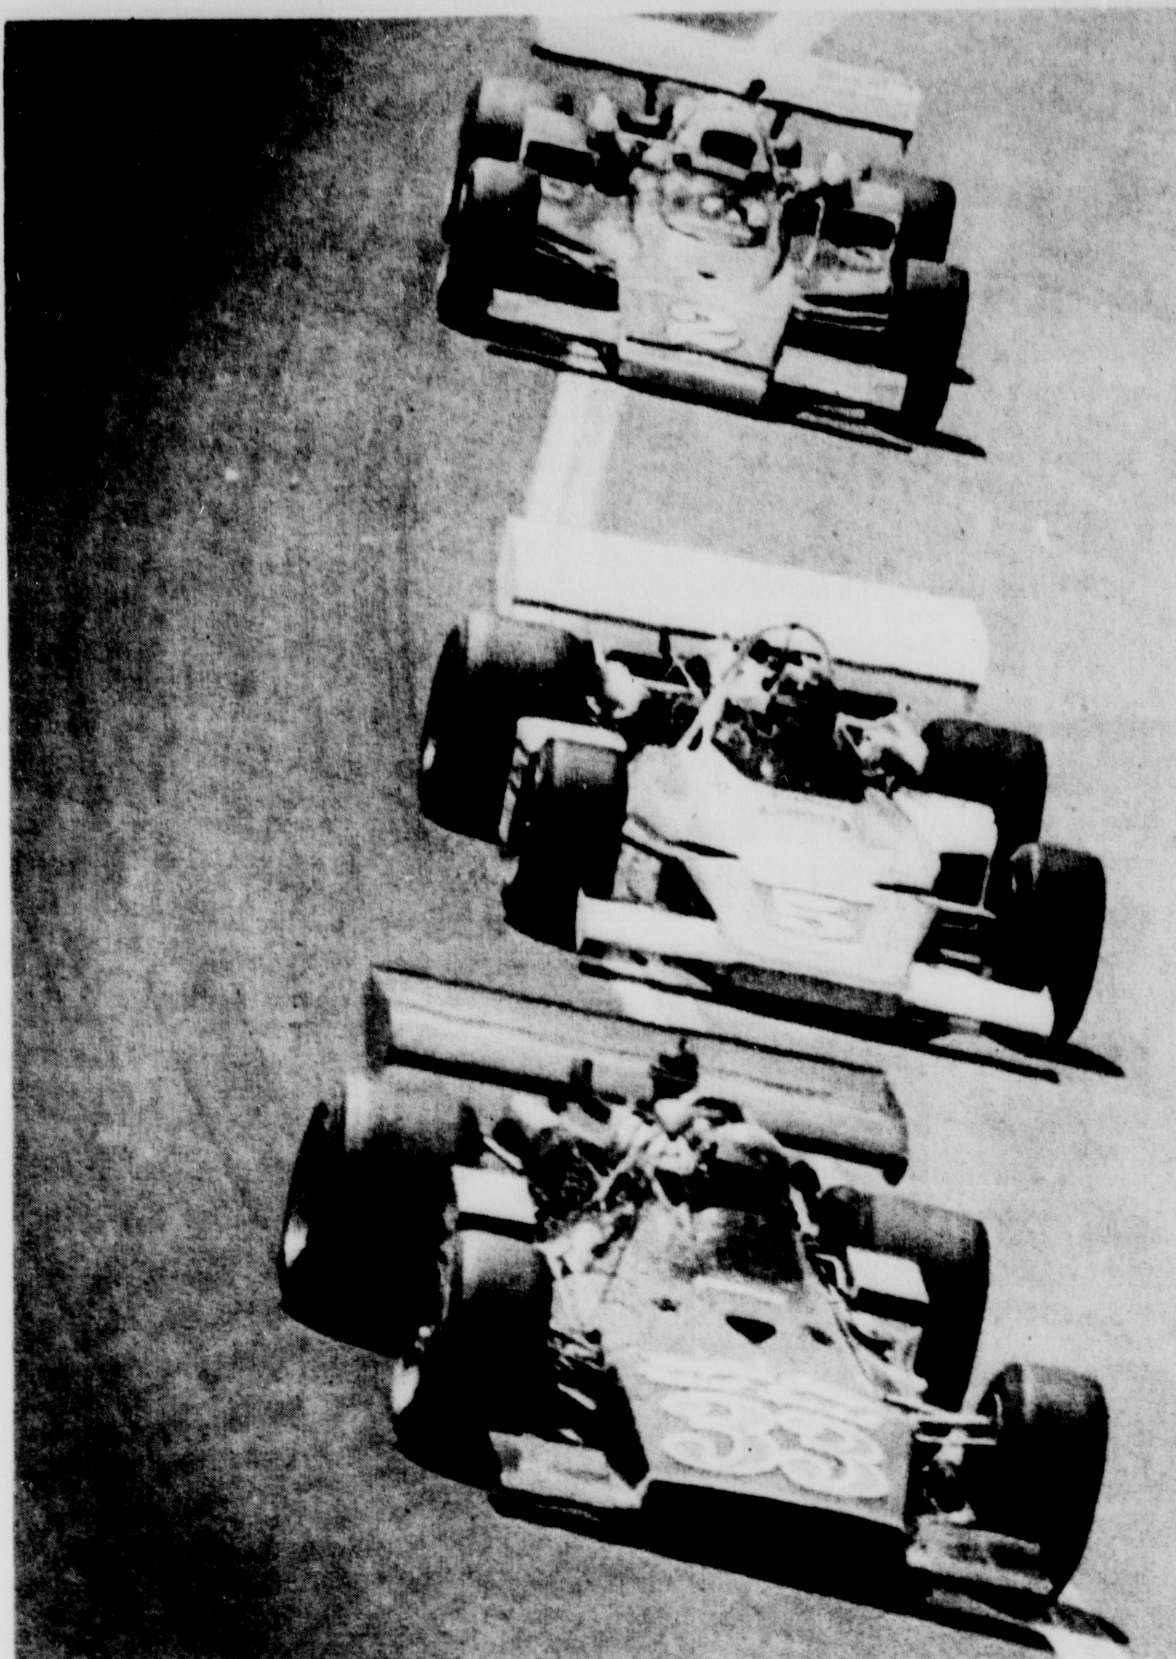

The Pirates, taking their ninth consecutive victory, broke up the deadlock in the top of the 14th on an error by Joe Torre and two-run singles by Dave Cash and Al Oliver.

Torre threw to the plate in the 14th trying to cut off Richie Hebner, but the ball hit Hebner and bounced away. Hebner scored and runners were left on second and third. Cash singled both across. A single and walk loaded the bases again, and Oliver drove in the last two runs.

Pittsburgh took a 4-2 lead in the top of the ninth, but the Cards tied it on singles by Matty Alou, Torre and Bernie Carbo and Luis Melendez's ground-er.

Ted Simmons homered for St. Louis in the second.

Minnesota won on Danny Thompson's double and Rod

Salt Walther Chasers

Lloyd Ruby (5) and A. J. Foyt (2) chase carburetion tests Wednesday for Indianapolis 500 rookie Salt Walther through one of the turns during Saturday's 56th running of the famed Indy 500 race. (UPI)

Walther Has Good Racing Background

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Salt Walther, the baby of this year's Indianapolis 500, cut his teeth on competition.

His grandfather, George Walther Sr., toured the famous oval shortly after the turn of the century—in a bicycle race.

His opponent was Barney Oldfield, a 500 driving champion who would race on just about anything. Grandpa Walther won laurels grandly known as the Tri-State cycling championship.

Salt's father, George Jr., a Dayton, Ohio, industrialist, was an avid boat racer who just missed the National Hydroplane Championship in 1954.

Because of his family background and the fact he and three-time Indy winner A. J. Foyt are the only drivers among 33 who own their own cars, Salt was tagged as just another rich kid here for a lark.

But Salt isn't exactly a dilettante at racing.

A V-shaped, 6-foot-1, 195-pound weight lifter at age 24, he has 10 years of experience in boat, motorcycle and sprint and championship dirt car racing. He came to the Speedway last season, but Dick King, director of USAC competition, deemed him too green to take his driver's test.

"I don't say whether they were right or wrong," said Salt. "But I know I've learned a lot in the last year."

"Everyone complimented me on how smooth my driving tests went. I never spun, I never even tapped the wall."

Veterans were surprised at the consistency of his qualifying laps—180.216, 180.796, 180.423, 180.723.

The 180.542 average put him in the field on the outside of the ninth row. He joined seven other rookies—Sam Posey, Swede Savage, John Martin, Mike Hiss, John Mahler, Lee Kunzman and Jim Caruthers—for Saturday's $1 million classic.

He agrees with the veterans that rookies are the guys who have to be watched once all 33 cars are on the track.

"I don't blame them for not wanting rookies in the field," said the veteran boat racer. "In hydroplanes I don't like to be running next to rookies, either. But that's what the driver's test is all about. I'll just try to keep out of their way and do the best I can."

"Everyone has to be a rookie sometime."

Salt, a swinging bachelor, owns his own home in his native Dayton and has a mountain lion for a pet. He started racing Class A utility boats at age 14, by age 16 was piloting 5-liter hydroplanes, then moved in to the 7-liter class, winning among other honors the International Orange Bowl Grand Prix in Miami.

Jim Moore Receives Letter in Basketball

GLENDIVE, Mont. — Jim Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald James Moore of Sedalia, has received a basketball letter at Dawson College here.

Moore is completing his freshman year at the community college, and is attending Dawson on an athletic scholarship.

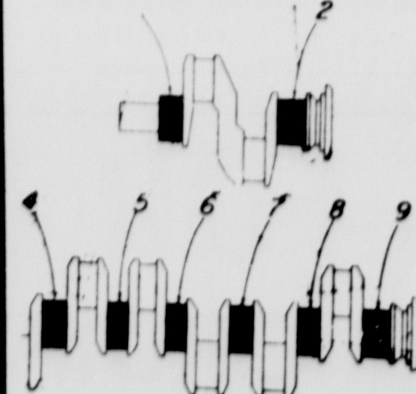

Hewett Freshman MVP

WARRENSBURG — Mark Hewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hewett of 2406 First St. Terrace, has been elected as the Central Missouri State College's most valuable freshman in track.

Hewett, a 1971 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is the former S-C record-holder in the pole vault, long jump and high hurdle events. His best vault in high school was 13-6, but he managed a height of 15-0 in competing with the Mules this past season.

He also participated in sprints and sprint relay teams his first year with the Mules. Hewett, along with Dan Van Dyne, Larry Hausam and Paul Klover still hold the S-C sprint medley relay mark at 1:37.1, set in 1970.

KC Interests Seek NHL Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of its member clubs, the New York Islanders and Atlanta, don't have a single player yet, but the National Hockey League is charging into expansion again.

The league's Board of Governors is expected to swell NHL membership to 18 teams today after it hears applications from groups representing Kansas City, Kan., San Diego, Phoenix and Washington, D.C.

The expansion meeting began Wednesday with presentations from Kansas City, Mo., Cincinnati, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Dallas.

Sitting and listening closely to the presentations were Roy Boe of the Islanders and Bill Putnam of the new Atlanta franchise. They don't have votes on the board yet and, in fact, won't even have any players until the expansion draft scheduled for the first week in June.

But the NHL said when it added the Islanders and Atlanta to the league last November, that it was aiming for 24 teams before the end of the decade and it will be only six short of that goal if two clubs are added today.

The price is $6 million per team and the bidders seemed more than willing to part with that amount.

"We have a youthful, aggressive group and we have the money," said Bill DeWitt, the former baseball owner who heads the Cincinnati bidders.

Only one of three Kansas City bidders was heard Wednesday. This one, headed by Stanford P. Glazer, proposed to base a team in the downtown area of the city, on the Missouri side of the state boundary. The other two Kansas City groups, which were to be heard today, will propose suburban sites located in Kansas.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, said that a decision on the two new teams was expected today, but indicated that if the governors decide to, they could delay any decision until mid-June.

The new teams would start play in the 1974-75 season.

(Shot-toe-nutt dew Pop) Celebrated sturdy red wine of the Rhone Valley, some dozen miles north of the old papal city of Avignon, in southern France. The "chateau neuf" (new castle), now a ruin, was the summer home of the Avignon Popes in the 14th century; the vineyards are planted on an extraordinary, high, stony tableland, dominating the Rhone and the surrounding fertile plain; the soil consists of the coarsest sort of gravel and small boulders on which it seems impossible that vines should grow. The wine is deep crimson in color, full bodied, generous, fairly high in alcohol (usually 13-14%); it is soft and matures quickly. It is quite drinkable at three years old and at its best between the ages of five and ten years. It compliments red meats extremely well and should be served at cool room temperature (about 60 degrees).

At USTFF Competition

Olympic Hopefuls Vie in Meet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Some 800 athletes, men and women from high schoolers to veterans of 40, will compete Friday and Saturday in the 10th U. S. Track and Field Federation meet at Wichita State University.

It is the third straight year for the meet to be held in the all-weather track at Cessna Stadium.

Athletes who have not already qualified for the U. S. Olympic trials will be bidding for tryout berths.

Heading the entry list are world record holders Jim Ryun and Randy Matson.

Ryun, who has had his ups and downs since returning to competition more than a year ago following a layoff after his collegiate career at the University of Kansas, will compete only in the 880-yard run here. He will not run the mile.

Ryun will be in an 880 field which includes the Chicago Track Club's Paul Lowell and Ken Sparks, former Kansas State star Ken Swenson, who is now in the Army, and present K-State star Jerome Howe.

Ryun holds the world half-mile record of 1:44.9, while Swenson holds the American 800-meter record of 1:44.8. Lowell has turned in a time of 1:46.8 in the 880 this season and Sparks has done 1:47.7.

Matson, who still holds the world shot put record at 71 feet, 5 1/2 inches which he set in 1967, will head the shot put field here. This season's top U. S. shot putter, Al Feuerbach, the one-time Emporia State, Kan., star, won't be competing.

Feuerbach, who has beaten Matson each time they have met this season and has surpassed the 70-foot mark, has qualified for the Olympic trials and is taking a rest.

Matson, who has thrown the shot 62-2 1/4 this year, will be challenged by Brian Oldfield of the Chicago Track Club, who has done 67-4 this year; George Woods of the Pacific Coast Club, 67-3; Karl Salb, former University of Kansas star, 64-7 1/2; and Tom Brosius of Kansas State, 62-0 3/4.

The mile run field features John Lawson, former Kansas star who now runs for the Pacific Coast Club and has turned in a 3:59.5 mile this spring; Peter Kaal, former Oklahoma State standout also now with Pacific Coast who has done 4:00.4 this year; Alan Walker of Wichita State, 4:01.3; Jim Wilkins of North Carolina State, 4:01.5; and Howe, 4:02.5.

Harold Porter of Southwest Louisiana, one of three sprinters to run the 100-yard dash in 9.2 seconds this year, heads the sprint field, which also has George Daniels of Colorado, the defending USTFF champion, Cliff Branch, another Colorado speedster, is doubtful because of a leg injury.

The javelin and discus fields also are strong.

Kansas' Barry Schur, who has leaped 7 feet, 3 inches this spring, and Barry Shepard of Pacific Coast, who has done 7-2, lead the high jumpers.

Sam Colson of Kansas has the top javelin throw this year among those entered. Colson hurled the spear 264 feet and one-half inch for a Big Eight Conference record last Saturday at Boulder, Colo.

Who Needs Glasses?

American League umpire Jim Evans of Elgin, Tex., looks at a photo Wednesday showing him being hit in the right eye with a baseball during the first inning of Tuesday night's game between the Chicago White Sox and the Texas Rangers in Arlington, Tex.

Evans was forced to leave the game. The injury occurred as Chicago's Rick Reichardt scored the fifth run in the first inning and the throw to home plate got away from Rangers' catcher Dick Billings.

JC Drops Out

Sedalia BJ Team Has 'Solid' Look

Jefferson City or no Jefferson City, the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League opens play Sunday night with a single contest in Liberty Park Stadium between Sedalia and Tipton.

The league, down to seven teams with Jefferson City officially dropping out of the league Sunday, won't have a full slate of games until June 4, when six of the seven squads see action.

Sedalia, the second-place finisher in the western division standings last season due to their loss to Boonville in a playoff, finished the 1971 campaign with a 10-11 record. Boonville took the western flag with an 11-10 mark.

Pitching may well be the strong point for the Sedalia team this year, with two standout Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association hurlers heading the list of pitchers.

Terry Hudson, who won three and lost none for the Central Missouri State College Mules, and Bob Pledge, who posted a 6-1 record for the MU-Rolla Miners as a freshman, will be the top mound choices for coach Salty Schumaker.

In addition, Larry Newbill, Sedalia, Tom Morgan, Warrensburg, and Jim Coffelt, Hughesville, will probably round out the mound staff. Newbill and Coffelt pitched for State Fair Community College this season. Morgan, a student at CMSC, did not play baseball for the Mules.

The infield looks solid with Steve Gerlec at third, Pete Green, a second team all-CMBJ pick last season, at shortstop. Steve Holmes will be at second, while Scott Schumaker will probably be at first.

The outfield looks equally solid with David Pirtle, picked last season on the All-CMBJ first team, anchoring that threesome. Other outfielders will be Paul Kirby and Mike Dalton.

Veteran catcher Larry Neville, also a second-team choice on the 1971-All-CMBJ squad, will return to that position.

"With school just now getting out," said Schumaker, "it's kind of hard to tell who all will be on the team."

He did say that utility man Dave Nash will also go out for the squad.

Following their opening game Sunday with Tipton in Liberty Park, the Lions will return the contest on June 1 in Tipton.

Sedalia will host New Franklin June 4, while Tipton will be at Centralia and Marshall will be at Boonville the same night.

Columbia will have the night off. They were originally scheduled to play Jefferson City, however, the Bears have since dropped out of the league. Columbia will open their season on June 7 at Centralia.

Kingsville Dumped Twice By O'Connors

KINGSVILLE — Mike O'Connor Motors won a softball doubleheader from Kingsville here Wednesday night by scores of 4-2 and 11-0.

Sam Cramer's double with two out and two on in the third and Herb Ford's single with two out in the fourth that drove in the deciding two runs, were the game's big hits.

Ron Clawson, the winning hurler in the opener, was touched for only three hits. He struck out six and walked none. Clawson also supplied O'Connors with a two-for-three performance at the plate.

John Fiene rode the batting of Tom Hunter and Cramer, each of whom went three-for-four, in the second game and picked up the shutout victory.

Fran Barker and Randy Romine were the respective losing pitchers in the opening game and the nightcap.

O'Connors travels to Boonville Friday night and opens play in the Boonville Tournament against Pilot Grove at 9 p. m.

Readers of Tennyson may recall that Galahad's strength was as the strength of 10 because his heart was pure. That made it rather easy for his father, Sir Lancelot, to teach him how to handle sword, spear and shield. As for his bridge, the Wizard Merlin, who was the first bridge teacher, found him a most apt pupil.

Most of Merlin's pupils, like many pupils today, would go right after clubs at trick two, only to find that they would wind up one trick short because of the bad club break.

Galahad simply pointed out that he could be sure of nine tricks if he just went right after diamonds. He had only six diamonds, but was sure to establish two of them as winners.

Then he surprised his teacher by explaining that he might well wind up with an overtrick on his safe line of play.

The young prodigy did exactly this. East won the first diamond and led back a spade. Now Galahad, who had played the three of diamonds the first time, led out his queen.

West could do no better than win the trick and clear the spades, whereupon Galahad cashed the last two diamonds while discarding a heart and a club from dummy.

East, who had discarded a heart on the third spade, let a second heart go. Now Galahad played king and ace of hearts and by that time his seven spot had become high.

Nowhere To Go

It seems to be a case of "nowhere to run" for this burglar, who hangs from fire escape in Stockholm. It's a long way down and going up meant climbing right into the hands of the law. Apparently realizing that it was hopeless, this unidentified young man surrendered. (UPI)

Select New York For Headquarters

DENVER (AP) — After surveying the possibilities in many parts of the country, the United Presbyterian Church has decided to locate its new consolidated headquarters in New York City.

Fourteen cities figured in the early consideration.

The proposals had narrowed down to three by the time the church's governing assembly took up the issue Tuesday night—New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Delegates first voted down proposals favoring Philadelphia and St. Louis and then by a strong majority on a show of hands picked New York.

Offices of the 3.1-million-member denomination presently are dispersed in Philadelphia, New York and Columbus, Ohio, but are to be centralized in New York.

tered in one place under a major reorganization plan.

"We must continue to stand at the edge of the nation and at the crossroads of the world, that Christ may be known to all men," the study commission said in recommending New York.

The church now has part of its headquarters staff—530 of them—at the Interchurch Center in New York, and expanded space is to be acquired there for other offices. About 500 staff workers now are in Philadelphia and Columbus.

The move to New York is to be completed within two years.

The commission discounted arguments that location "somewhere in the middle of the country" would help overcome any sense of estrangement between local congregations and national agencies.

American Casualties Are Listed

SAIGON (AP) — Eight Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week and seven were missing, the U.S. Command announced Thursday. It said another nine Americans died of nonhostile causes, including air crashes not due to enemy action, and 22 were wounded.

The total of 24 dead or missing was 12 less than the week before, when 13 men were reported killed in action, 18 died of nonhostile causes, five were missing and 26 were wounded.

Casualties among both North and South Vietnamese troops continued to increase due to the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Saigon command reported 757 South Vietnamese troops killed last week, 2,351 wounded and 214 missing in action. This was an increase of seven killed and 32 wounded compared to the previous week, but the number of missing was 130 fewer.

The government claimed 4,028 enemy killed and 106 captured last week, compared to 3,613 killed and 56 captured the week before.

Total casualties for the war, according to the allied commands, are:

—American, 45,755 killed in action, 303,031 wounded, 1,590 missing or captured, 10,179 dead from nonhostile causes, and 140 missing not as a result of hostile action. Most of these are troops killed in air accidents in which the bodies have not been recovered or have not been identified.

—South Vietnamese, 143,484 killed in action, 365,718 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, 835,691 killed.

The U.S. Command's weekly summaries have reported a total of 431 American casualties between the start of the enemy offensive March 30 and last Saturday. This includes 76 killed in action, 73 missing in action, 56 dead of nonhostile causes, 15 missing due to nonhostile causes and 211 wounded.

South Vietnamese casualties during the same period have been 5,671 killed and 17,690 wounded, while the government claims 30,015 of the enemy killed.

Memorial Day Services Set At Cemetery

Pettis County veterans will meet at 9 a.m. Monday at Crown Hill Cemetery for special Memorial Day services, it was announced Thursday.

Master of ceremonies for the services will be the Rev. W. A. McVey, Nelson, who will introduce various guests and speakers, including the featured speaker for the program, the Rev. Robert W. Magee, pastor of the First Christian Church of Sedalia. Mr. Magee will speak on "Loyalty to God and Country."

Following the main speaker, Mrs. Lula Tidwell, Gold Star Mother of the American War Mothers, will make a graveside presentation of a specially-made wreath in memory of all American war dead.

Pettis Chapter #279 OES will hold a stated meeting on Friday evening, May 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, 601 West Broadway. Past Matrons and Past Patrons will be honored. Visiting members are welcome. Lucille Meyers WM, Margaret Gwinn, Sec'y.

The Sedalia Scottish Rite Club will hold its May breakfast meeting Saturday, May 27 at 7:30 a.m. at the State Fair Restaurant. All Scottish Rite Masons are urged to attend. Let's all be there. James Duzan, Pres. Bruce McCully, Sec'y.
